Window-Smashing Burglar Eludes Police

HURLS BRICK THROUGH PANE AS COPS WAIT

Flees From Scene of Third Burglary at Orr Company In Three Weeks.

WATCH POSTED FRIDAY

Chief Says Officers Declined to Fire on Fleeing Man Because of Risk.

BULLETIN

Police this afternoon arrested a suspect in last night's J. F. Orr Typewriter company robbery. Held for investigation, the man admitted, according to Chief Meade K. Bates, the theft o fa radio from the W. E. Jones Furniture company, in the same neighborhood, some six weeks ago.

While police lay in wait early today, a window-smashing burglar for the third time in three weeks hurled a brick through a plate glass window at the J. F. Orr Typewriter company, 136 Park avenue west, grabbed a $39 machine and then eluded officers in a chase through back lots.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said this morning the man employing tactics identical to those of the two previous burglaries dropped the portable machine in an alley along side the W. E. Jones Furniture company as he fled north towards West Third street.

The window-smashing took place about 5 a. m. while Patrolmen Floyd Bowers and John Grohol sat in a police cruiser in a driveway almost directly across the street, the chief said.

Although he had not talked to the officers today, Bates said he had been told by Capt. Jesse Schwab, third shift commanding officer, that the thief eluded the patrolmen in a chase through the West Third street vicinity

Bates said the officers, after seeing the man break the window, grab the typewriter and start west on Park avenue west, ordered him to halt.

He said he was told by Capt. Schwab that both officers hesitated to fire at the fleeing man because he was in line with homes at the rear of the Warner building.

Bowers and Grohol reported that the man disappeared in the vicinity of the College apartments. The typewriter, badly damaged when dropped was found in the alleyway.

The chief said officers had been watching the store since last Thursday when the heavy glass window was smashed and a $39 typewriter taken.

A similar theft was reported on July 30 and several days previous a window was broken at the Jones company and a radio stolen.

Rescue Ends 23 Hectic Hours of Drifting on Lake

CLEVELAND—(AP)— Adrift on stormy Lake Erie for 23 hours, 17 Cleveland residents told an exciting story today but suffered no ill effects from their hardship.

The party of eight women, eight men and Captain Lloyd Cryfzer were aboard the 44-foot cabin cruiser Pinafore which was towed into Vermilion late yesterday to end an all-day search by four coast guard boats and an airplane.

The cruiser was 15 miles from shore when a squall struck Sunday afternoon. The high waves tore off the rudder and left the boat helpless to navigate.

Distress signals were raised and flares set off but no rescue craft came. Throughout the night and most of yesterday the cruiser tossed on the waves. Most of the passengers became seasick. A fishing boat from Vermilion finally sighted the lost cruiser yesterday afternoon and towed it to Vermilion. The Lorain coast guard helped in the rescue.

Willkie Lashes Back At Hot Ickes Blasts

'Amazed' President Would Authorize Such a Speech, He Says.

(By Associated Press)

RUSHVILLE, Ind.—Viewing Secretary Ickes' reply to his acceptance speech as a presidential refusal to meet him in joint debate, Wendell L. Willkie gave this statement to reporters today:

"Lincoln did not think it was unworthy or undignified to debate, and neither did Daniel Webster. I am going to keep on asking for the debate, boys."

The Republican presidential nominee, who on Saturday challenged President Roosevelt to a series of "face to face" platform arguments listened by radio last night to Ickes' address accusing him of "unpatriotic demagoguery" and "unpardonable references" to the chief executive.

Hastily calling a secretary, he dictated a statement to Joe Martin, Republican chairman, saying

"I am not surprised that Ickes would stoop to such levels, but I am astonished that the president of the United States would authorize such a speech."

Willkie telegraphed Martin that he should "waste no money in buying radio time to answer Ickes,"

Secretary Says G. O. P. Nominee Once Lauded Samuel Insull.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary Ickes, calling Wendell Willkie's criticism of President Roosevelt's handling of foreign affairs "ill-considered and demagogic," has termed the Republican party "the party of appeasement"

In a radio address described as a reply to the Republican presidential nominee's acceptance speech, the interior secretary last night asserted:

"The Republican party in 1940 contains the equivalent of England's and France's pro-Nazi Munich appeasers of 1938—the men with the black umbrellas."

Ickes said that Willkie was a member of Tammany Hall and indicated that he considered him an admirer of the late Samuel Insull, utilities operator. Both statements were promptly termed "plain and simple falsehoods," by Willkie in a statement at Rushville, Ind., last night

Willkie, Ickes said, had joined Tammany Hall in 1930, "fought" in its ranks and "has not resigned to this day."

Ickes also claimed that Willkie had once praised Insull as a "force-

Windsor Reported Mapping Changes In Nassau House

NASSAU, Bahama Islands—(INS)—Sweeping changes are due at Nassau's government house for the tenure of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor as governer and first lady of the Bahamas, persons professing to know about such matters reported today.

The gossips said the government-house staff of cooks will be substantially increased and that, contrary to previous practice, the kitchen help will eat on the premises.

Another story also went the rounds of Nassau. In the midst of the ceremonies inaugurating him as governor, the duke is supposed to have commented in an aside:

"This is a swell show!"

ANTI-CLIMAX

Tax Paying Hits Slump After Record Day Yesterday.

There was a decided let-down today at the office of the county treasurer on the last day of the tax paying period, following an unusually busy day yesterday.

John Kolb, treasurer, said that the $33,000 taken in yesterday represented more individual payments than had been made in any one day since he has been in office.

Up to this morning a total of $513,246 had been collected this period, Kolb said, without counting a stack of checks that came in through the mail yesterday and today and which have not yet been tabulated.

After today there will be a ten per cent penalty on all unpaid taxes.

COUNTY TO GET NEW DOG POUND

Modern Gas-Heated Structure Will Be Built at Corner of Fairground.

County commissioners today announced plans to build a new, modern dog pound to replace the old shed at the Fairgrounds which now houses the county's homeless pooches.

It will be located on the north side of the fairground, near the northwest corner, commissioners said today, and will be modern and sanitary. It will cost approximately $1,500.

Harry J. Brumenschenkel, architect in charge of plans for the building, said it would be made of cement blocks with cement floor, 20 by 26 feet and one story. It will have running water and will be heated with gas.

Pens will be separated with woven wire partitions. In the building will be an office for the county dog warden.

Commissioners said today that when the building is completed, a fence would be put around it, so that dogs could be turned out into a play yard when the weather is good. It will be the first modern pound the county has ever had, commissioners said.

BRITAIN MAKES U.S. OFFER OF DEFENSE BASES

Churchill Announces 99-Year Lease Offer, Asks For 50 Destroyers.

REJECTS HOOVER REQUEST

Says It Would Prolong Agony of All Europe; Declares British Losses Low.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Britain has decided to offer the United States 99-year leases on air and naval defense bases in her western hemisphere possessions. Winston Churchill told the house of commons today.

In his eighth war statement, one filled with cold confidence, the prime minister declared Britain had decided to offer these "suitable sites" to the United States in Newfoundland and the West Indies, and was not asking for any advantage in return.

However, he did appeal for "timely reinforcement" of Britain's navy from the United States—a reference to some 50 overage destroyers which Britain wants to buy.

Churchill also rejected a proposal by former President Hoover for the shipment of American food supplies to France, Belgium and Holland, declaring it would only "prolong the agony of all Europe."

As Churchill spoke, three great waves of German planes thundered across the channel into southeast England and dropped their bombs, then roared back to France.

Of the proffer of defense bases to America, Churchill asserted Britain was ready to open discussions for their development whenever President Roosevelt was ready

"Naturally," he added, no transfer of sovereignty is involved. A similar statement was made in the

'NO COMMENT'

Mexican Navy Silent on Halting of U. S. Vessel.

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—The navy department, declining official comment of the halting of an American freighter off Acapulco, pointed out today that Mexico's territorial waters along her rugged Pacific coastline are patroled by six warships.

The United States freighter, Herman Frasch, was halted off Acapulco by the cutter G-22 yesterday as a precautionary move. Mexican authorities said, after she had steamed into national waters. The vessel, bound from San Diego, Calif., to New York, was allowed to proceed after a brief search.

The navy department said gunboats or armed coastguard cutters are based in the republic's principal Pacific ports to prevent smuggling of arms for a political revolution.

The section of coastline near Acapulco has coves and inlets where contraband could be landed easily.

West Fourth Paving Goes Into Speedy Gear Today

Addition of 45 Workmen Brings Total Number of Men on Job to 200; Concrete Base Work Starts.

Progress on the Fourth street paving project swung into high gear today as WPA transferred 45 additional workers to the job in order to speed up construction work.

City officials were informed that the additional men taken from two different state road projects boosted the working force on the paving job to more than 200 workers.

Meanwhile the contractors poured the first concrete for the brick center strips at 1:30 p. m. today. Work started at the Mulberry street intersection moving eastward on the south side of the street. It was expected that actual brick laying could be started within the next two weeks.

Carl H. Stander, president of the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, stated that pouring of concrete parking strips on both sides of the street from North Diamond street to a point midway between North Mulberry and Bowman streets would be completed today.

While workmen prepared to move equipment east of Mulberry street to begin pouring the concrete base on the south side of the street, another crew of workmen was engaged in pouring the approach bases at the North Walnut street intersection.

Supervisors on the job said pouring of the concrete base would proceed along the south half of the street from the postoffice to Diamond street. When this is completed workmen will "return"—pouring the north side of the street west from Diamond.

Changes Mind At Last Minute, Holds Up Murder Charge Plea

A few minutes before he was scheduled to go into common pleas court yesterday afternoon to change his plea to guilty to a second-degree murder charge, Albert Davis, 35, colored, asked for "more time to think it over," so the hearing was postponed.

Judge C. H. Huston said Davis probably would be brought into court this afternoon.

Atty. C. F. Creedman, representing Davis, said the accused man still planned to change his plea, but he was "not quite ready yet."

Davis was indicted Aug. 1 by the county grand jury for the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Lena Morton, colored in her bedroom. He pleaded innocent to the first-degree murder indictment.

Deciding that it would be difficult to prove that the slaying was premeditated, Prosecutor G. W. Marriott then agreed to reduce the charge to second-degree murder and Davis said he would plead guilty to that charge.

If he pleads guilty, Davis will be sentenced to the penitentiary for life under the Ohio law. His plea would also eliminate the necessity of a trial.

Two other cases, scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, will

Nazis Resume Widespread Raids Over Island, R. A. F. Counters With Terrific Attacks on French Bases, German Cities.

BULLETIN

BASLE, Switzerland—(INS)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, who has been in conference with high government officials and military leaders in Berlin, has now proceeded to German army headquarters in France, according to a Berlin dispatch. Hitler's re-assumption of personal command in the field was believed to presage an early opening of Germany's long-heralded grand assault on England.

ON ENGLAND'S SOUTHEAST COAST—(AP)—Three waves of German planes attacked inland points in a bombing foray on southeastern England today and then roared back toward France. It was impossible to count the raiding planes as most of them were flying above the clouds, but there must have been hundreds.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Bombing of two German transports at Haugesund, one of the nearest Norwegian ports to Britain, was reported by the admiralty today as widespread Nazi raids ended another lull in Germany's air siege and British fliers answered blow for blow.

Haugesund is on a stretch of Norwegian coast between Bergen and Stavanger, which might serve as a base for a sea-borne Nazi invasion against which Britain is making constant preparations.

Two direct hits on one of the 3,000-ton transports were scored by Skua—British dive-bomber—aircraft, the admiralty said, and other bombers raided oil tanks north of Haugesund.

Still regarding the German mass air assaults as a likely prelude to an attempt at a direct smash at this island nation, the British added more details today to their elaborate arrangements against any breakdown of their organization in a crisis.

The government established emergency administrative machinery to direct traffic in 40 ports without authority from London in event of invasion. All Britain yesterday was made a defense area,

AHEAD: Italians Expected To Strike Out Toward Aden

BULLETIN

ROME—(AP Via Radio)—Italian bomber formations accompanied by fighting planes bombed the British naval base of Malta today, the Italian radio reported. The radio said military objectives there were "successfully attacked."

(By Associated Press)

ROME—Italian authorities indicated today that operations to close Britain's gateway to the Red sea would be undertaken as a sequel to the conquest of British Somaliland and occupation of Berbera its capital.

Strongly implying that attacks on Aden, on the Arabian coast of the narrow waterways linking the Red sea and the Indian ocean, and on islands in the strait of Bab El Mandeb were contemplated, authoritative Fascists said the Somaliland victory would enable their forces to "threaten the British outlet from the Red sea."

The occupation of Berbera, fall of which the British announced yesterday, was reported in today's Italian high command communique.

Premier Mussolini sent a telegram of eulogy to his victorious troops and exchanged messages of felicitation with Fuehrer Hitler, it was announced.

The British troops retreating from Berbera by sea left part of the city in flames, a communique said.

One entire camel corps, described as "well equipped and well armed" was said to have surrendered to the advancing Italians at Hargeisa, south of the port.

The high command also reported that a submarine of unknown nationality had hit an Italian mine near the Dodecanese islands in the eastern Mediterranean. A large patch of oil on the sea led to the belief it had sunk.

ANXIOUS: U. S. Waits Word Of Safety Of Refugee Ship

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Officials today waited anxiously for reports that the U. S. Army transport American Legion, with 897 war refugees aboard, had safely cleared the danger zone of European waters.

Two continents watched the progress of the homeward-bound vessel, knowing that its fate might influence vitally the future course of the United States toward the war now in progress in Europe.

The German embassy, in a statement issued around 4 p. m. (EST) yesterday, estimated the vessel would be in "grave danger" for the next 12 hours. Unofficial computations, however, indicated the ship may be in the danger area until late this afternoon.

The United States has formally notified all belligerent governments that this country "expects" that the vessel will be permitted to make its homeward voyage without molestation from armed forces of any government.

Tension is the outgrowth of a heated controversy with the German government over the course the American Legion should take on its homeward voyage. The German government urged the United States to send the rescue ship on a northerly course, close to Iceland, on its journey from Petsamo, Finland. The United States Navy heads had charted a course much farther south, bringing the vessel close to the north coast of Scotland between North Rona and Cape Wrath.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, August 21.

WHILE judging by the lunar and mutual aspects this will be a day in which the forces and faculties will be stimulated to aggressive attack in putting over new and important propositions, with things moving at a particularly high tempo, yet it is probable that all the stress and tension may not justify the energy and initiative expended. There are several frustrating and delaying factors to be dealt with. There may be some mental confusion or miscarrying of ideas. Also legal entanglements or trouble with papers. However, all constructive and practical work accomplished may have future results. Group action is important and advisable.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a particularly lively year, with much stirring in major projects, under highly stimulated forces and energies. Practical constructive work should aim at future fulfillments, even though for the present there are signs of obstacles, postponements and other frustrating circumstances, such as legal entanglements or some mental slant may make revision of plans desirable. Cooperation with groups is lucrative.

A child born on this day although being energetic, aggressive and have much creative ability may yet have less practical inclinations and talents. It's idealism may turn to humane and social activities.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

SO OBSESSING was the terrifying thought which had just come to me that I completely forgot the harrowing vigil through which Miss Whitlock had just passed, and the fact that she was getting her first sleep in twenty-four hours.

I lifted my hand to knock upon my door and summon the nurse to warn her to Edith's possible possession of a weapon, and of my fear that her patient might attempt to kill my husband when he should come to see her.

Faith in the Nurse.

But as sanity replaced panic, I let my hand drop and turned noiselessly away with the salutary feeling that I was doing an absurd thing.

There are few nurses as poised, as resourceful and as experienced as Miss Whitlock, and she had just told me of her year's experience in a psychopathic ward. Common sense told me that she would have gone over the room—and Edith—with the utmost care, and that there was not a chance in a million of there being anything in the room which Edith could possibly convert into a lethal weapon.

But as I went steadily enough down the corridor to the nursery, I found that though my spirit was sane enough to realize the folly of awakening the nurse, my creeping flesh wanted to give Miss Whitlock the superfluous warning.

My first glimpse of the nursery door, however, made me dodge back around the corner in the hall. My mother-in-law, majestic in the pride of her new office as guardian of the nursery, was bidding Lillian and Katherine a stately and gracious farewell, and I did not want to undergo the questioning on Edith's condition whic' I knew she would voice the second she saw me.

"Do not have the slightest concern," Mother Graham was saying. "This task is not new to me, nor is it as arduous as others I have faced.. I ran Harriet's house for years, as you know."

A Romantic Crisis.

"Oh! yes, indeed, I know," Katherine replied, and I was sure that the mention of Harriet Braithwaite, Dicky's sister, had brought back to her—as to me—memories of the time when Edwin Braithwaite, famous surgeon, had mistaken his thwarted fatherhood for a more romantic feeling, and imagined himself in love with winsome Katherine Sonnot, his most valued assistant in his hospital.

The wisdom, the compassionate understanding and the innate goodness of two women, Harriet, Edwin's wife, and Katherine herself, had brought all three safely through that crisis so loaded with potential dynamite.

The closing of the nursery door on my mother-in-law's final assurance that everything was safe in her hands released me from hiding, and I rounded the corner of the hall and joined Katherine and Lillian as they reached the top of the stairs.

"You look as if you'd seen the grandmammy of all the ghostesses." Lillian said with a quick, concerned look at my face, and I saw that Katherine's eyes were also fixed anxiously upon me.

"I have," I returned, "but wait till we get to the landing."

The "landing" was half way down the stairs, a place where we could stand comfortably, and out of sight of both the first and second floors.

"You do have such bright ideas occasionally," Lillian drawled in what I knew was an attempt to cheer me. I tried to smile at her, but it must have been a dismal thing, for she suddenly clapped a friendly hand upon my shoulder.

"Never mind my gags," she said. "They're simply tossed in as a possible sop, but they don't have to be noticed in any way. But tell us what's the trouble. I know there must be something fresh suspended above the well-known devoted head."

"There is," I said dolorously.

"About Ede. I'll wager anything in the penny bank," Lillian commented.

"Also the dime in the china pig," Katherine added.

I agreed, and repeated the warning from Miss Whitlock that Edith was contemplating suicide.

Exercise For Slim Silhouette

By MME. QUI VIVE

Glance through your history of fashion and you will be surprised to see how many ways have been found to distort the feminine shape. Bustles, hoops, hobble skirts, bust ruffles, hip pads, the kangaroo walk, the debutante slouch. It is evidence of a step forward that the ideal figure is as nature produced it at its best—slender, neatly rounded.

Blessed with health and an inclination to live an active life, any woman should be able to keep or to cultivate a figure of pleasing outline, correct proportions and normal weight and measurements. Every year we learn more and more about food values. Exercise isn't the bogy it used to be. Gymnasiums report improved business conditions. Dancing schools have cash customers that attend because they desire to acquire grace, lightness of movement, maybe to work off a few extra pounds that are not needed on the anatomical premises.

It is an advantage to have a normal figure, especially these days when we pluck our frocks out of the shops instead of having them made for us, as did our mothers and grandmothers. Old-time dressmakers tell how their sartorial clients fainted after hours spent in the fitting room. The modern girl couldn't spare the time for all that monkey business. She buys a dress in the morning, wears it that night. Life is simpler in some ways than it was in the yore days.

One factor that is going to help do away with figure defects is the increasing interest in outdoor sports. Small girls play baseball with the boys. Bicycling is more popular; it's a grand means of slithering down fatted calves and normalizing undeveloped shanks.

Bust-developing is given its just due by the sisters. One must put up a good front if one is to march in the beauty parade. Mrs. Hippy is getting down on the floor and rolling herself to a state of slenderness. Rolling crushes the fat cells, as does mechanical massage. The lady with overmuch spread amidships rests on the floor on her back, lifts her right foot high and rolls to the left, stretching the leg, touching the floor with her toes. Six times to the left, six to the right and repeat. Good fun. Makes the family laugh.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

READY-TO-RUFF SIGNAL

Holding three cards of your partner's suit, your job is to play the middle one on the second trick when defending a suit contract. Why? For the reason that playing a card he can read as your smallest is a definite signal to him that you have no more of the suit and can trump the third round. Faithful observance of both parts of this convention can result in your beating many a contract which would be made if you defied it.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	2 ♠
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

North had to stretch a bit to bid the game, but it was rubber bridge and one of the defenders was not considered overly strong, Mr. West. The latter led the A of his partner's spades and then the 6. East won with the K and immediately returned the suit, feeling positive West would trump because his 6 to the second trick was the lowest spade not in sight to East. He was chagrined to see the declarer ruff. West followed suit with the 7. After declarer knocked out the heart A, he won the club return with the A, dropped the other trumps and ran the diamonds, discarding his losing clubs and making his contract.

If West had led the spade 7 to the second trick, East, upon winning it, would have read him as probably also holding the 6, and so would have switched to the club Q on the third trick. This would have set up a club trick for the side, which could have been taken as soon as the trump A scored. To believe that cards like the 6 and 7 are equals was costly to West.

1 medium sized cabbage

Wash meat in cold water, put in heavy kettle, cover with boiling water, cover and simmer until meat is tender, between three and four hours. Add cabbage cut in eighths or smaller pieces suitable for serving, and cook, uncovered, until tender, which should not be more than from 5 to 10 minutes if the cabbage is fresh and tender. Serve on large platter with cabbage around meat. The amount of meat would serve 8 or 10 persons, and would leave plenty to serve cold, in sandwiches and for hash. It is difficult to get a good cut of corned beef of less weight than this.

Allerton Salad.

Wipe, pare and cube 1 cucumber add an equal amount of celery, cut in thin slices crosswise, ½ as much English walnut meats or peanuts broken in pieces; ½ the amount of finely chopped green pepper, moisten with your favorite salad dressing and pile on slices of peeled chilled tomatoes on lettuce.

LUCKY FOR LOVE + + + + + +

CHAPTER XXII.

Sharing an apartment was a convenient, economic and happy arrangement. Convenient for work, economic in that it cut living expenses in two, happy because it provided companionship both girls wanted and needed. Neither presumed to intrude on the private affairs of the other. Yet each found satisfaction, relief even, in mutual confidences, mutual trust, a community of interest in their tabloid home.

"The coffee is and the sugar buns are out." Marilyn reported from the kitchenette.

"I'll squeeze the oranges," Kathleen called. "Hop into the shower and make it snappy. I'll save my shower until after I've wrestled with the oranges. That's when I'll need it. What's in the ice-box for supper? The way I feel now I'm coming straight home from the office, pile myself a plate of food and get bread crumbs all over my bed."

"Help yourself," Marilyn laughed. 'Bruce is taking me to a place he's just discovered. Sure-nuff Southern fried chicken and waffls. We'll probably take in a movie afterward."

"Yes? Seems to me this Bruce person is a habit around our house. One can't open the front door without stumbling over him."

"Don't be silly, Kathie. Bruce—well he's sort of sorry for me. I'm alone, he's alone—his mother and father are dead you know, he has no sisters, no brothers—only distant relatives—"

"Hey, pardner, don't tell me he wants you to be a sister to him. Men with all his money, looks and position never need to be alone. Besides, I've seen him look at you and his eyes weren't saying 'Sister.'"

"If you don't stop teasing and go into action, Cookie will have plenty to say when we report late at Clarco."

When Marilyn came out of the bath, Kathleen was scanning the morning paper. They shared it riding the subway to work.

"I've been slumming through Tom Peep's gossip colum," she said. "There's a morsel in it you won't like. You may as well see it now and be prepared. Darn that sister of yours, anyhow. And just when we're going along so smoothly! Now I suppose you'll start worrying yourself into a lather again."

Marilyn took the paper. Here it was, the Keyhole Kolumn, and yes, at the very top. . . . "What slightly faded lovely of the night clubs appeared at what hot spot yawning and scared what battered play-boy clean out of a side exit? . . . and what highly publicized Queen of Beauty is pouting today because she did not know her knight-errant had that kind of past? . . . Oh well, the Queen's throne has been rocking ever since she started using it for a stepladder."

Marilyn said, "He means Clara, of course, and Herman Hess."

"I'd say that's a good guess," Kathleen agreed. "Sounds like trouble to me. Why don't you ring Al Martino? He'll know the inside story."

"Al's out of town. He's conducting another Metropole beauty contest. Do you think I should call Clara? She might need me, if she's in real trouble."

"What? And have her blast you for butting into her business? If she's in real trouble she'll call you; you won't have to call her."

The telephone was ringing when Marilyn, returning that evening from a hard day at the office, let herself into the apartment in Tenth street.

"'Lo, Lynn," the voice at the other end of the wire said. "How's the honest working girl?"

"Clara," Lynn replied, ignoring the sarcasm, "I'm so glad you called."

"Don't Clara me. My name is Clarice. I've chucked that Millville moniker along with pancakes for breakfast and heliotrope perfume. I have a message for you. Bruce and I are going out for a spin. He insists I need the fresh air. We may be a little late getting back. He says to tell you to meet us at the Penguin club. It's on East Fifty-third, uptown side. Around half past seven."

Marilyn gripped the receiver. She must not let her brain spin.

"I don't understand," she managed. "Bruce sending me a message by you? Bruce who?"

"Now really, Lynn, as if there could be more than one Bruce. If you must act childish, the last name is Gordon. I'm here in Bruce's apartment. Nice set, isn't it? So bookish. We're having cocktails as soon as Bruce comes in. Sorry you can't join us."

A pregnant silence. Then, from Marilyn, "I don't believe you. You're not in Bruce Gordon's apartment and you have no message from him to me."

"Oh, no?" Clara's laugh taunted. "So I'm a liar, am I? Then suppose you call up Bruce's apartment. You know the number. And suppose you take a peek in at the Penguin tonight around half past seven or eight. I'm hanging up, but I'll be waitin' for you."

Marilyn heard the receiver click. Also, she heard the beating of her own heart. This was another of Clara's tricks. Or was it? There had been triumph in her sister's voice, an unholy glee, a challenge. Very well, she would accept the challenge. With trmbling fingers she dialed the number that danced in figures of fire before her.

"Lo. Mr. Gordon's apartment." Clara's voice. Unmistakable.

"Clara," Marilyn gasped. "It's—it's you!"

"Why yes, dearie, who did you expect?" Venom in a sugar coating. "Call me here almost any afternoon at this time. Bruce won't mind your knowing about us. It's all in the family. See you later—sister."

When Kathleen Garvan came home Marilyn was sitting by the window staring out over the roof tops.

Kathleen spun her hat toward the table. "Why?" she wanted to know. "What's happened?"

"Clara phoned. She was in Bruce's apartment. She had a message for me. I'm invited to join them at the Penguin club this evening for dinner."

"You mean your sister Clara and Bruce Gordon? Look, Lynn, come away from that window. I'll brew a dish of tea. You've been dreaming. Wake up! Stop talking in your sleep."

"It's no dream." Marilyn came away from the window, began pacing the narrow room. "Clara called. She was in Bruce's apartment. She delivered his message."

"My aun'ts whiskers! Clara was in her hotel or a handy telephone booth putting on one of her needling acts. Don't tell me you fell for it?"

"No. I didn't fall. I called Bruce's apartment. Clara answered."

"What? Are you sure it was Clara?"

"Yes. Clara."

"Well of all—Lynn, there's a fishy odor to this business. I have a feeling all's not as it seems."

"Wishful thinking, maybe."

"Wishful, my eye! We're waiting here until Bruce Gordon calls for you. If he doesn't call, we're doing a job of snooping. We're going to the Penguin for a look-see. It happens I've been there several times and I know the keyhole through which we can snoop. There's a little jog in the bar just as you come in. We can slide into the jog and have a bird's-eye view of the entire scene without being seen. What say, Lynn?"

Marilyn stopped pacing. She was calm now.

"I say 'yes'." She went to the bathroom, splashed cold water over her face and her throat. Deliberately, she applied powder, a touch of lipstick. Then she came back into the livingroom and composed herself, as best she could, to wait for Bruce Gordon.

At eight o'clock Kathleen Garvan said, "Tuck your hair under your hat, Lynn. We're off for the Penguin club." She had expected an argument from Marilyn, a last minute withdrawal, but none was forthcoming. Insteady. Marilyn pulled her hat to a smart angle and her chin to a sharp one. "Let's go," she said, leading the way.

Less than an hour later Marilyn and Kathleen were back in their apartment.

"Honestly, Lynn, Kathleen was saying, "you could bowl me over with a pinfeather. What's it all about? That dizzy sister of yours and Bruce Gordon in the Penguin when he had a date with you. Say, here's a thought. They weren't eating. Just sitting. Clara was gulping from a glass. Gordon had a glass but he didn't touch it while we were there. Struck me he was waiting. Clara did all the talking. He looked plenty bothered. Think back, Lynn. Did he look like a man who was having a good time?"

"I didn't notice. I just knew they were there, together, as Clara said they would be. Clara wants Bruce. She told me so—that night after Al was hurt in the Blue Parrot. She told me he was the only man she'd ever seen she'd fallen in love with at first sight and that she would get him. Clara always gets what she wants."

"So Clara always gets what she wants! Lynn, use your head. You know as well as I do that no one gets what he wants unless he earns it and battles for it. Don't tell me you're a quitter!"

"No, Katie—but if we have to fight for love—the phone. Will you answer?"

"Yes, indeed. And if it is what I think it is, I'll ask all the questions, too. Hello. Kathleen Garvan. Bruce Gordon? Yes, Mr. Gordon. Yes, Marilyn is in. You wish to speak with her? I'll ask. Sorry, Mr. Gordon, Miss Marsh has retired. You must speak with her? Well, really—hold the phone—Miss Marsh says will you please give me the message? WHAT? You're waiting for her at the Penguin? I thought you were to call for her here. What's that—her sister brought you her note? Yes—you did as she requested, took her sister with you to meet Marilyn at the Penguin? MISTER Gordon, you've been taken for a buggy-ride. Lynn wrote you no note. She waited here for you until—but skip that. Where are you now? Penguin, eh, still waiting. Sure. Come on over. But get rid of the excess baggage first. This is a quiet apartment. Lynn and I don't want to get thrown out for inciting to riot."

Kathleen hung up, turned to Lynn.

Charges Plane Builders Turn Down Army Plane Orders

SAYS BUILDERS SHY AT CURBS SET ON PROFIT

Air Corps Chief Claims Huge U. S. Orders Rejected By Manufacturing Plants.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The army and navy recently possessed funds for 5,725 airplanes and guns for 28 destroyers but could not contract for the vital equipment because manufacturers objected to federal profit limitations, testimony before a senate committee revealed today.

Publication of the testimony, given by high army and navy officers at secret hearings on the new $5,008,000,000 (B) defense appropriation bill, showed that some committee members voiced the opinion that the government ought to "conscript" private industry.

Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, air corps chief, was disclosed to have testified on Aug. 8 that the war department had money available for 4,247 planes but could make no contracts because manufacturers felt there were too many uncertainties arising from congress' action reducing from 12 to 8 per cent the profit permitted under the Vinson-Trammell act.

"They have got us stymied at this minute," Arnold told the committee. " . . . we have the money and we have the desire to place orders for these planes, and we have not been able to place them. We are doing our best, and the impetus is coming from the belief that this legislation will be changed."

(The committee, in approving the appropriations bill Thursday, recommended restoration of the 12 per cent profit limit.)

On Aug. 13, Admiral John H. Towers, chief of naval aeronautics, testified that contracts for 1,478 naval planes, for which funds were available, were being held up because manufacturers "will not accept them until they know where they stand."

Towers told the committee that one contract for 300 planes was "being held up entirely on this profit limitation," and that it could be awarded "immediately" if the profit were restored to 12 per cent.

The defense contract log-jam was broken partially last week when the army signed contracts for 856 combat, bombing and training planes.

August Building Valuations Get Boost of $26,000

August building valuations were boosted $26,750 today with the issuance at City hall of permits for six miscellaneous construction projects.

Largest of the permits went to Justine Sterkel, 14 Sturges avenue, for construction of a $10,000 garage building at 203 North Main street.

A permit for the construction of a $6,000 gasoline filling station at 479 Springmill street, was issued to the Shell Oil company. W. G. Beer, 69 South Diamond street, was given permission to build a $9,000 home at 379 Edgewood road.

Three alteration permits went to R. S. Kuhn, 160 North Diamond street, for a $1,000 addition to his home; Anton Reuser, 285 East Second street, for remodeling his residence at the cost of $700, and A. B. McClellan, 464 West Fourth street, who plans a $50 addition to his residence.

TWO TRUSTIES ON WAY BACK

Inmates Who Fled Orchard Are Caught in Michigan.

Two trusties who fled from the Ohio State reformatory orchard 10 days ago were in custody in Michigan today awaiting return to Mansfield.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke, notified that the pair had been apprehended by authorities at Marshall, a short distance from Battle Creek, Mich., said they would be returned here.

He identified the fugitives as Jack Dyer, 19, of Alger, Hardin county, and Paul Sharrock, 26, of Newcomerstown, Coshocton county.

Dyer was committed Jan. 24 to serve a one to 20 year term for forgery and Sharrock received Jan. 23 was serving a one to 15 year term for burglary.

NAMED OHIO ASSISTANT

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert announced today appointment of Ansel H. Wilson, of Dayton, as an assistant attorney general. Wilson, graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university and Harvard law school, has practiced law in Dayton since 1936.

Draft Backers Move Toward Compromise

When Clarence Silcott, 53-year-old city engineer, received his Eagle Scout rank here several weeks ago he accomplished something that probably no other person his age had ever done. His 10-year ambition was such an unusual feat that newspapers throughout the nation featured the story. One account appeared in a New York City publication last week which has a circulation of several million.

Maybe there's something to the charge of opponents of the draft that voluntary enlistments have not been given a fair trial. A Mansfield youth, 21, tried to enlist in the navy at Sandusky recruiting office last week and the usual routine questionnaires were sent back to police and juvenile court to learn if he had a record. The police gave him a clean bill. Juvenile records, however, showed two reports on him of a very minor nature. Once he played hookey from school when he was 9 years old, and once he was in the company of another boy who stole a sack of peanuts out of an unlocked, parked car. These two infringements are holding up his enlistment until navy officials can learn more about his "crime."

Merritt Giles, a Hermit club member, found out yesterday that no matter how grown up you may be it is still hard to fool your dad. His father, Albert E. Giles of Peoria, Ill., was the guest of the club yesterday at Possum Run, and during the activities he thought he would do a little checking up on his son's behavior. Much to his amazement everyone he asked about Merritt showered him with glowing accounts of his son's excellent behavior. "It's either a put up job, or Merrit's changed a lot," Giles senior commented with a smile.

A bird in the hand may be worth two in the bush, but Patrolman George Yoakum was wondering today what to do with one of the feathered creatures after you get it in your hand. Yoakum, called to a North Main street hotel this morning when a pigeon flew in a window, rescued the bird and took it to headquarters. It was identified as a carrier bird from bands attached to its legs. Its home was apparently in Chicago. The patrolman released it and when last seen it was resting on a window ledge at City Hall.

BACKS WILLKIE

Plain Dealer Comes Out For G. O. P. Candidate.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The Plain Dealer, Cleveland morning newspaper, today announced in a Page One editorial that it would depart from a "century-old" Democratic tradition and support Wendell L. Willkie for president.

The Plain Dealer said:

"Eight years ago we supported Franklin D. Roosevelt with boundless enthusiasm. Four years ago we supported him with some misgivings. The course of events since then, culminating in the president's ill-advised and successful maneuver for a third term nomination, forces upon us the conviction that we can no longer support the president whom this newspaper helped twice to elect."

NEIGHBORS WILL FACE CHARGES

Court Continues Hearing on Altercation for Further Investigation.

Following an altercation at the home of John Sawyer on Harding avenue five days ago, Sawyer was free on bond today pending a hearing Aug. 27 on a charge of assault and battery, and John Fairhurst, 47, his neighbor, whom he is alleged to have assaulted, is held in the county jail on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Deputy sheriffs said Sawyer allegedly hit Fairhurst over the head with a golf club, knocking him down, after Fairhurst pounded on the door of the Sawyer home and asked to be let in. Sawyer said Fairhurst attacked him after entering the house.

Fairhurst was taken before Judge C. H. Huston in probate court yesterday, but Judge Huston, hearing the case in the absence of Judge C. J. Anderson, ordered the hearing continued for further investigation.

County authorities said it probably will be two or three days before the case will be resumed. Fairhurst was ordered back to jail pending the investigation.

DOUBLES SPACE IN NEWSPAPERS

Pillsbury Company Finds Dailies Are Best Ad Media.

Use of newspaper advertising to promote Pillsbury's flours and cereal foods will be increased more than 100 per cent during the current fiscal year, it was announced today by Howard W. Files, vice president in charge of advertising and sales for the Pillsbury Flour Mills company.

"We feel," said Files, "that with momentous events occuring so rapidly and frequently throughout the world, the average consumer is seeking constantly for the latest news, and naturally turns to newspapers with an intense interest in reading complete details. This makes newspapers, more than ever, an ideal medium for advertising."

BOARD COMPLETES PLANS FOR OPENING OF SCHOOLS SEPT. 4

Completing arrangements for the opening of Mansfield schools Sept. 4, the board of education last night hired four teachers to fill vacancies, approved Supt. W. L. Miller's assignment of principals and teachers for the year, and authorized the transfer of 85 pupils from the Bowman school to the Hedges school.

Employed by the board were Miss Frances Randall, Mansfield, and Miss Marjorie Gant of Senecaville who will teach home economics at Johnny Appleseed Junior high school. Charles McClure and J. Parker O'Brien, both of Mansfield, vocational instructors at Senior high school.

The board accepted the resignations of Paul Sparks, school psychologist; Miss Helen White, Junior high teacher, and Miss Alice Bower, home economics instructor. Sparks will go to Indianapolis schools, while Miss White resigned to be married, and Miss Bower to become a home supervisor with the Farm Security board.

Principals of all of the city's 13 schools will head the same schools again this year. They include Jesse Beer at Senior high school; H. J. Dotson, John Simpson Junior high school, and Glenn G. Rohleder, Johnny Appleseed Junior high school.

Other school heads who were reappointed to the same posts they held last year are:

G. W. Harmony, Bowman school; C. C. Secrist, Brinkerhoff school; Roy R. Spetka, Bushnell school; Dean Rex, Carpenter school; Glen L. Robinson, Hedges school; E. W. Kissel, Newman school; George W. Taylor, Prospect school; W. A. Freeman, Western Avenue school; W. W. Blauser, West Fifth street school; C. A. Divelbiss, Woodland school.

Supervisors who were re-appointed include: A. LeMoine Derr, vocal music in Senior and Junior high schools; Miss Helen Hartmann, elementary music; J. Merton Holcombe, band; S. K. Jorgensen, orchestras; Miss Dora McLeod, primary grades; Harry Mehock, physical education director, and Miss Florence Robison, art.

Pupils who will be transferred from the Bowman school to Hedges school are those in the former Trimble district. They will be transported to school in buses.

In recommending the shift, Supt. Miller said some classes at the Bowman school are becoming too large for the adequate attention of teachers. With remodeling of the Hedges building and the transfer of Hedges Junior high pupils to the new Johnny Appleseed building, the 85 pupils can be handled easily at the Hedges school, he said.

He told the board that two teaching positions can be eliminated at the Bowman school as a result of the transfer, saving about $3,000 annually in salaries.

YELLOW FEVER HERO RETIRES

Army Captain To Leave Service; Native of Ohio.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Capt. Thomas M. England, one of the army heroes who risked their lives 30 years ago in Cuba experimenting with yellow fever control, will retire from active service Oct. 31 upon reaching the statutory age limit of 64 years, the war department said today.

For his part in those tests, England, a native of Chillicothe, Ohio, is carried on the army registers "roll of honor."

RETAIN STOUT OPPOSITION TO DELAY ON PLAN

More Exemptions, Pay Boost, College Set-up Are OK'd By Bill Backers.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The house military affairs committee today tentatively approved a provision in its conscription bill calling for registration of males between the ages of 18 and 64 inclusive.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Conscription advocates evinced readiness today to accept some slight modification in the terms of the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill but reaffirmed stout opposition to a move to delay the projected draft until Jan. 1.

Senator Burke (D., Neb.), one of the bill's authors, said he had agreed to "three out of four" changes suggested in a compromise proposal by Senator Maloney (D., Conn.).

He repeated, however, that he would continue his fight against Maloney's plan to defer conscription until 1941, pending a four-month trial of a system of voluntary, one-year enlistments.

Amendments which Burke said he was prepared to support would broaden the exempt classifications; would set up a college military training program under which cadets would draw $5 monthly federal pay, and would boost the army's basic pay scale from $21 to $30 a month.

Burke told reporters he believed that there had been an increase in opposition to the Maloney proposal for postponement of conscription until January.

At the same time, administration strategists said that a recheck of their polls indicated that a three-vote margin in favor of the Maloney substitute might be wiped out before the senate acts on it later this week.

The Burke-Wadsworth bill provides for the immediate registration of all men from 21 through 30, but would defer training for the physically unfit, those with dependents, and those employed in necessary agricultural or industrial jobs.

Maloney, in his substitute, seeks to include ordained ministers, theological and divinity students, and college students under 24 in the deferred class.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Miss Midnight's Diary.

Dear Diary: I always knew it would be difficult to look like Joan Bennett or Hedy Lamarr (Editor's Note:—Huh?) because they look so much alike. But I never realized how confusing and embarrassing it would be until a beautiful fragile brunet walked into Leon and Eddie's Saturday night, hatless and wearing a tailored linen suit.

She had the kind of a face that would cause a stir in the trackless mountains of Tibet, and since that is no description of Leon and Eddie's, her entrance was the signal for everyone to practically climb on top of the tables.

In thirty seconds, word had reached even the outposts of the room that Hedy Lamarr was present. Hedy in the flesh, and prettier than her pictures. In less time than it takes to knock over a martini, a crowd of fans had surrounded the star, begging.

"Please, Miss Lamarr, will you sign here?"

Well, Miss Lamarr didn't sign. At least she didn't sign Miss Lamarr's name. Because Miss Lamarr was Joan Bennett.

But how can you blame the fans for not knowing the difference, when a fellow named Gene Markey got so confused he married them both?

Simultaneously, Harry Richman was celebrating his birthday at Ben Marden's Riviera. Sophie Tucker and Joe E. Lewis presented him with a cake so big it looked like the Planetarium with icing, but there still wasn't enough to go around, so Harry met the emergency by embedding hundreds of candles in chocolate eclairs and passing them among the guests.

He did not reveal his exact age, but he hinted at it.

"I won't be collecting my social security," he said, "until Shirley Temple is playing mother roles."

Jim Farley and Vincent Daly were surrounding Mrs. Richman (Hazel Forbes) and Peggy Fears sauntered in looking sleek, her long bob longer than ever. Joseph M. Schenck, Harry's closest and oldest friend, was on hand in a sentimental mood. He recalled the days when Harry was Mae West's piano player, and he remembered the birthday years ago when he asked Richman what he'd like for a birthday present.

Richman replied: "If it's not too much, would you please send the phone company a check for nine dollars so they'll turn the service on again?"

Harry got hundreds of birthday presents, including 28 good luck pieces, and Hildegarde, Ted Husing, Betty Lawford, Meyer Davis, the Ranee of Sarawak, and the George Jessels all sang "Happy Birthday to You" in his honor. Only Tommy Manville, who brought his mother along, was really puzzled over what to buy Harry.

"You see," he apologized, "I've never bought anything for a man before!"

While Joan Edwards was singing tender little love songs at the Cafe Pierre Monday night, Packey O'Gatty, the diminuitive ex-boxer, waltzed in with a very tender face. It had a bruised cheek, which (Mr. O'Gatty surprised one and all by announcing) was inflicted by Miss Arlene Judge. It seems that Miss Judge said she wanted to learn to box, and Mr. O'Gatty, who is her physical trainer, asked her to show him what she meant by boxing.

The cut on Mr. O'Gatty's cheek was Miss Judge's audition.

P. S. Miss Judge, who was over on the other side of the room expressing some amusement at the reported marriage of her ex-husband, Wesley Ruggles, denied that she was a contender for any of the current ring crowns, even the very lightweight.

Bob Sweeney, who used to be betrothed to Barbara Hutton, and Carol Bruce, who is this year's big musical comedy "discovery," were both chortling at John Buckmaster's takeoff of radio's Uncle Don at the Savoy-Plaza Monday night. But not together, which is a fine way for them to treat the gossip columnists. They were both giggling happily at the merciless impersonation, but I'm sure they would have been even more gleeful if they had known who was the gentleman at the ringside table who was simply doubled up with mirth.

The gentleman who was so delighted by the imitation of Uncle Don was—Uncle Don.

The Algonquin certainly can dish up a mass of celebrities around lunch time. Sir Cedric Hardwicke strolled in, to find Phil Baker chatting with Dennis King, Oscar Serlin doing the same with Leonard Siliman, and Hendrick Van Loon (who is stealing the Algonquin attendance records away from Conrad Nagel) just sitting reading — the afternoon papers. Mischa Elma was strumming some spaghetti, and Jack Pearl was telling someone the story of the man who climbed on a pretty blue scale to weigh himself. The card, when it came out, said 165 pounds. Later he passed another blue scale and got a card which read 165 pounds. He shrugged, and moved on until he came to a scale just like the others. He deposited his penny and out came the card.

"165 pounds," it said. "What's the matter, pal—don't you believe us?"

Betty Allen's last night of a five-night stand at the Hurricane attracted a bevy of Broadwayites. Girls from "DuBarry," "Louisiana Purchase," "Higher and Higher" and the Diamond Horseshoe almost filled the place, to say nothing of Sally Rand ("one of my fans," chuckled Betty). Charlotte Manson, the other Brenda Frazier, Jack Haley, Lou Holtz and George and Lois Jessel.

Proudest ringsides was Ethel Merman, who was proud because Betty, her understudy in "DuBarry," was doing so well in the orchids Ethel had sent her.

The mad melee on the dance floor after the show impressed me as something that is going further than anyone ever dreamed. I mean the conga. All that ad libbing would scare a Comanche Indian. The conga, I think, is getting out of hand—or is it feet?

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY M'LEMORE

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Have you ever hit a wrestler?

I mean, have you ever hauled off and really let one of those big groan and grunters have it right on the chin?

If you haven't, then Jack Dempsey will tell you that you have missed one of life's greatest pleasures and try to convince you that no man should shuffle off this planet without having socked at least one wrestler.

Last night, as Jack and I shared a steak in his Broadway Bistro, he told me that never in his life had he had such a good time as on his recent tour when he fought wrestlers in Atlanta, Detroit and other places. A glow came into his eyes as he leaned across the table, clenched his big left fist, and told of his hand-to-hand encounters with the big bullies of the beer trust.

"There just can't be any bigger thrill than belting a wrestler," Dempsey enthused. "Wrestlers are just made to be hit. I've hit all kinds of boxers in my life but I got more fun out of punching those big wrestlers than I did out of all the boxers put together. Man, what targets they make! Boxers are always going away with your punches, or slipping them, but not those wrestlers. They think they are so big and strong that they can just come tearing into you and tear you apart. You can really tee off on those babies."

I asked Jack if he didn't have a qualm or two about hitting the big fellows?

"No, and I'll tell you why. Lots of you sports writers intimated that the wrestlers had instructions to take it easy with me and to be careful not to hurt me. You know, the old fixation to take care of the old champ. Well you were all wrong. It was every man for himself once that bell rang. When I got to Atlanta to fight Ernie Lutrell, my manager, Maxie Waxman, who never had seen him get scared when he saw the cowboy hoist himself through the ropes. He whispered that maybe we had been taken for suckers, and said he wasn't sure I could lick him. Well, I whispered back, we've picked a helluva time to decide that."

The wrestlers didn't agree for him, Jack said.

"They knew I was getting up in years, and that I wasn't in any too good shape, and that they could get a lot of publicity if they could knock me out. So they started swinging and kept swinging until I cooled 'em off. They can't take much of a punch, those wrestlers."

I asked Jack if he ever entertained any serious notion of making a comeback and he even laughed.

"You think I'm crazy? I just needed a little ready money and besides I like to be on the move. I'll tell you this, though. You really can't tell by hitting wrestlers how good your punch is, but I know I threw a few rights and lefts that would have knocked anything down."

I left Dempsey's and with fists clenched, roamed Broadway, looking for a midget wrestler.

Invades Braves' Park

Fremont Tackles Mansfield; Admission Prices Are Reduced Tonight.

HOPING to perform before one of the largest crowds of the season, the Mansfield Braves are set today to tackle the Fremont Green Sox in an Ohio State league setto at the Fairground under the arcs at 8:30 p. m.

With the announcement yesterday by President Joe C. Hartline that the admission price will be reduced to 20 cents, a large gathering is expected to attend the Mansfield Braves Directors' Appreciation night attraction.

Bob Arnold, lanky righthander, will be Manager Dewey Stover's choice to handle the mound assignment and he will be going after his 16th win of the season.

The Braves were scheduled to meet the Green Sox in a doubleheader at Fremont last night, but rain and wet grounds forced postponement of the twin bill.

Mansfield invades Tiffin Wednesday night and will return to the Fair park for a doubleheader Thursday night. In the first game Thursday the Braves clash with the Loudonville Indians and in the second meet the Mudhens.

Brave officials were anxious to see a record turnout tonight. Hartline stated early today that the attendance will go a long way in helping the officials decide whether the Mansfield club will remain here in 1941.

Hartline today said that the reduced admission price tonight will not be repeated unless the crowd is larger than anticipated. It was previously understood that the new price would prevail during the remainder of the season.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa.—(AP)—Pitcher Mike Naymick is just too big for the U. S. Marines.

DON FISCHESSOR WINS DAYTON GOLF CROWN

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Cincinnati open golf crown was worn today by Don Fischessor, 26-year-old local professional, who believes in getting an early start and staying out in front.

Fischessor turned in a sparkling 68-70 138, four under par, in a tournament here yesterday to easily outdistance all opponents.

Clay Target Artists Torn By Controversy Over Shot Load

By FRITZ HOWELL

VANDALIA—(AP)—America's former clay target artists, torn by controversy over reduction in the shot load used to crack the flying clays, get a chance to debate today why their fewer pellets in the shells really hamper their aim.

The 41st grand American trap shoot program had on tap a 200-target 16-yard program to determine the men's, women's and professional championships of North America, and some perfect scores were necessary to match performances of the last few years when a heavier charge of shot was the vogue.

The Amateur Trapshooting association effective this year, decreed that the shot load should be cut to one and one-eighth ounces, a drop of [illegible] pellets from each shell. Opposition to the change has developed and petitions signed by some of the top notchers will be presented to the directors Wednesday night asking a return to the old load.

It's certain the scattergun artists can't improve much on former scores with the new shells in today's events, for perfect marks were hung up in two of them a year ago. Perfect runs of 200 [illegible] won the men's amateur title the last three years, P. O. Harbage of West Jefferson, O., turning the trick in 1939.

Fred Tomlin, Classboro, N. J., star, registered 200 in a row to take the professional crown in 1939, while Mrs. William Gilbert, of Madison, Wis., was only two off perfect figures in annexing feminine laurels.

* * *

Along with the 200-target program at 16 yards, a 100-clay event at handicaps is slated today to tune the huge field for the grand finale Friday. A field of 441 competed in Monday's opening day program, the largest inaugural attendance in 11 years.

Team Sponsors, Players Meet at Alleys Tonight.

The Commercial 'B' bowling league team sponsors and players will assemble at 8 p. m. today at the Meder Recreation alleys to complete plans for the 1940-41 season. With the schedule set to get under way early in September, Roy Vaughn, league secretary-treasurer, said today that it is important that anyone interested in the circuit to attend tonight's session.

Thompson To Try To Help

Hubbel Beats Reds, 9-2, as Deringer Fails.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Cincinnai Reds, whose only current claim to fame is the fact that they have a four-game lead in the National League pennant race, faced New York again today.

Junior Thompson, who has beaten the Giants three times this season, was given the starting assignment against Bill Lohrman, out for his tenth victory.

The New Yorkers defeated the Rhinelanders 9-2 yesterday. They took Paul Derringer apart and gave a rousing reception to Elmer Riddle, who was sent to his rescue.

The Giants took from Derringer seven of their tallies and 11 of their 14 hits, including six doubles, a triple and one homer. It was the fourth straight defeat for the Cincinnati hurler, who was trying for his 17th victory.

Carl Hubbell, in marking up his third victory of the season over the Reds, limited them to seven hits. The bewildered league leaders left 13 men stranded on the runways.

Frank and Mike McCormick and Lonnie Frey failed in attempts to get the ball out of the infield with the bases loaded in the first, seventh and eighth innings.

Indians Bank On Feller In Today's Game

Red Sox Pound Dobson, Humphries and Dorsett For 14 Hits In Easy Win.

BOSTON—(AP)—Only the best looked good enough against Boston today, so the Indians sent Bob Feller to the mound to halt their latest slump.

Gunning for his 22nd victory, Feller also was out to settle the score with Jack Wilson, Red Sox pitcher who has won three straight battles with the Indian ace in three years.

Still three games out in front after yesterday's 16 to 7 shellacking by the Sox, the Indians could afford to be philosophical and Manager Vitt led the philosophizing.

"I think a decisive defeat is good for a team now and then," Vitt commented.

The setback cut by a half-game the Indians' lead over the second place Detroit Tigers whose contest with the Yankees at New York was postponed by rain.

The Sox jumped on starter Joe Dobson for six hits and six runs before he retired in the third. Johnny Humphries replaced him and gave up seven hits and nine runs. Cal Dorsett, taking over in the eighth, yielded one—a homer by Bobby Doerr.

* * *

Cleveland connected for three home runs—Hal Trosky's 22nd, Roy Weatherly's eighth and Jeff Heath's ninth. The Indians pounded Joe Heving for 12 safe blows.

Farm Digger Finds Watch and Then Fob—What's Next?

TOWANDA, Pa. — Let Ralph Pickering keep digging on the C. A. Pratt farm and there's no telling what he'll find.

Several days ago while digging a silo pit he turned up a gold watch lost by Pratt's father 20 years ago. A day later he dug up a watch fob, a souvenir of the 50th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg.

The annual payroll of employes of federal, state and local governments is about $6,000,000,000.

ORDINANCE NO. 40-108

By Mr. Croak:

An ordinance relating to traffic and regulating the use of public streets and highways in the City of Mansfield, prescribing regulations relative to the parking of vehicles upon such public streets and highways; providing for the installation, operation, maintenance, supervision, regulation and control of the use of parking meters; defining and providing for the establishment of parking meter zones upon the public streets and highways; providing for the payment thereof and for the supply of parts therefor exclusively from the receipts obtained from the operation of parking meters; providing for the enforcement hereof and providing penalties for the violation hereof.

Whereas, because of traffic conditions that have existed in certain sections of the City of Mansfield, the free movement of traffic in these sections is, and has been, impeded for a long period of time; and,

Whereas, attempts to regulate the traffic and parking in the aforesaid area have not been as successful as is desirable; and

Whereas, because of the habit of numerous operators of motor vehicles of parking for long periods of time in close proximity to other vehicles so parked on the most congested parts of the City's busiest streets tends to further impede traffic and in addition thereto constitutes a danger of the life, limb and property of motorists, pedestrians and others; and

Whereas, it is the opinion of the Council of the City of Mansfield that the best method by which the above mentioned conditions may be remedied is by the designation of individual parking spaces in the said area, by providing for the use of parking-time indicators in conjunction therewith, by restricting parking in said area to reasonable intervals of time and by compelling the operators of vehicles who enjoy the use of the parking spaces so designated to pay a portion of the cost of establishing and maintaining the same. Now Therefore,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, STATE OF OHIO:

Section 1. For the purpose of this ordinance.

(a) The word "vehicle" shall mean any device in, upon or by which any person or property is or may be transported upon a highway, except a device which is operated upon rails or tracks.

(b) The word "street" shall mean any public street, avenue, road, boulevard, highway or other public place located in the City of Mansfield, and established for the use of vehicles.

(c) The word "person" shall mean and include any individual, firm, copartnership, or corporation.

(d) The word "operator" shall mean and include every individual who shall operate a vehicle as the owner thereof or as the agent, employee or permittee of the owner.

(e) A parking meter space shall be defined, for purposes of parallel parking, as a space approximately 20 feet in length along the curb, and for purposes of diagonal parking, as a space approximately 10½ feet along the curb.

Section 2. The Director of Public Safety is hereby authorized to establish zones to be known as parking meter zones in all or part of such areas on the streets and avenues of the City of Mansfield as are now or which may hereafter be, regulated by parking restrictions not exceeding one (1) hour parking. And in said parking meter zones the Director of Public Safety shall cause parking meters to be installed and shall cause parking meter spaces to be designated as hereinafter provided, and shall fix the time limitations for legal parking in such zones, and the hours during the day or night when the parking meter or meters must be used and when the time limitations shall be effective, in compliance with the provisions of this ordinance; and shall indicate the time limitations by designating the same on the parking meter or meters or by appropriate signs posted in proximity to said meter or meters in said zones.

Section 3. The Director of Public Safety is hereby directed to provide for the installation, regulation, control, operation and use of parking meters provided for in this ordinance, for nine months trial period with option to purchase and to maintain said meters in good workable condition, and said Director of the City of Mansfield is hereby vested with the power and authority and directed to enter into a contract, after advertisement according to law, with the lowest and best bidder for furnishing, installing and leasing to the City of Mansfield parking meters, the cost of said installation and leasing to be provided for solely from receipts, funds and moneys obtained from the operation of said parking meters, without in any manner obligating the city to pay for the same from any other source.

Section 4. Parking meters installed in the parking meter zones established as provided in Section 2 hereof shall be placed upon the curb immediately adjacent to the individual parking spaces hereinbefore described. Each parking meter shall be placed or set in such manner as to show or display by a signal that the parking space adjacent to such meter is or is not lawfully in use. Each parking meter installed shall indicate by a proper legend the legal parking time established by the City, and when operated shall indicate on and by its dial and pointer the duration of the period of legal parking and on the expiration of such period, shall indicate illegal or over parking.

Section 5. The Director of Public Safety shall have lines or markings painted or placed upon the curb or upon the street adjacent to each parking meter for the purpose of designating the parking space for which said meter is to be used and each vehicle parked adjacent or next to any parking meter shall park within the lines or markings so established. It shall be unlawful and a violation of this ordinance to park any vehicle across any such line or marking or to park said vehicle in such position that the same shall not be entirely within the area so designated by such lines or markings.

Section 6. When a parking space in any parking meter zone is parallel with the adjacent curb or sidewalk, any vehicle parked in such parking space shall be parked so that the foremost part of such vehicle shall be nearest to the parking meter, when a parking space in any parking meter zone is diagonal to the curb or sidewalk, any vehicle parked in such parking space shall be parked with the foremost part of such vehicle nearest to such meter.

Section 7. When any vehicle shall be parked in any space adjacent to which a parking meter is located in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance, the operator of said vehicle shall, upon entering said parking space, immediately deposit or cause to be deposited a five-cent coin of the United States or a one-cent coin of the United States in such parking meter and failure to deposit such five-cent coin or one-cent coin shall constitute a breach of this ordinance and shall subject such person to the penalty prescribed in Section 14 hereof. Upon the deposit of such five-cent coin the parking space may be lawfully occupied by such vehicle for a period of not exceeding one (1) hour in such zones as may be determined by Section 2 of this ordinance and the present or future parking restrictions of the City of Mansfield.

Upon the deposit of such one-cent coin the parking space may be lawfully occupied by such vehicle for a period of not exceeding twelve (12) minutes in such zones as may be determined by Section 2 of this ordinance, and the present or future parking restrictions of the City of Mansfield.

If said vehicle shall remain parked in any such parking space beyond the specified time period, the parking meter shall by its dial and pointer indicate such illegal parking, and in that event, such vehicle shall be considered as parked overtime and beyond the period of legal parking time, and the parking of a vehicle overtime or beyond the period of legal parking time for the coin deposited in any such part of the street where any such meter is located shall be a violation of this ordinance, and punished as hereafter set out.

Section 8. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this ordinance for any person to cause, allow, permit or suffer any vehicle registered in the name of, or operated by such person to be parked overtime or beyond the period of legal parking time established for any parking meter zone as herein described.

Section 9. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this ordinance for any person to permit a vehicle to remain or be placed in any parking space adjacent to any parking meter while said meter is displaying a signal indicating that the vehicle occupying such parking space has already been parked beyond the period of time prescribed for such parking space.

Section 10. It shall be considered prima facie evidence that the owner of any vehicle illegally parked in violation of this ordinance was the operator of such vehicle at the time of such illegal parking.

Section 11. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this ordinance to deposit or cause to be deposited in any parking meter, any slug, device or metallic substitute, or any other substitutes, for a five-cent coin of the United States or a one-cent coin of the United States.

Section 12. It shall be unlawful and a violation of the provisions of this ordinance for any person to deface, injure, tamper with, open or wilfully break, destroy, or impair the usefulness of any parking meter installed under the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 13. It shall be the duty of the Chief of Police or other officers in charge, of the City, acting in accordance with instructions issued by the director of Public Safety, to report:

(a) The number of each parking meter which indicates that the vehicle occupying the parking space adjacent to such parking meter is or has been parked in violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance:

(b) The state license number of such vehicle:

(c) The approximate length of time during which such vehicle is parked in violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance:

(d) Any other facts, a knowledge of which is necessary to a thorough understanding of the circumstances attending such violation. Each such police officer shall also attach to such vehicle a notice to the owner or operator thereof that such vehicle has been parked in violation of a provision of this ordinance and instructing such owner or operator to report at the Chief of Police's office in the Police Department of the City of Mansfield in regard to such violation. Each such owner or operator, may, within twenty-four (24) hours of the time when such notice was attached to such vehicle, pay to the Chief, or other officer in charge at the Chief's office, as a penalty for and in full satisfaction of such violation, the sum of ONE DOLLAR. The failure of such owner or operator to make such payment to the Chief, or other officer in charge of the Chief's office, within said twenty-four (24) hours shall render such owner or operator subject to the penalties hereinafter provided for violation of the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 14. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance and any person who aids, abets or assists therein, shall, upon conviction thereof be subject to a fine of any amount, not exceeding Fifty Dollars ($50.00) for each offense or violation or be imprisoned for a term not exceeding fifteen days, in the County Jail or in any place provided by the municipality for the detention of prisoners or both.

Section 15. The five-cent coins or one-cent coins required to be deposited in parking meters as provided herein are hereby levied and assessed as fees to provide for the proper regulation and control of traffic upon the public streets, and also the cost of supervision and regulating the parking of vehicles in the parking meter zones created hereby, and to cover the cost of the leasing, supervision, protection, inspection, installation, operation, maintenance, control and use of the parking meters described herein.

Section 16. This ordinance shall be deemed to be in addition and supplementary to, and not in conflict with nor a repeal of prior or existing ordinances of this City, but shall be an additional provision for the regulation of traffic and parking in those zones provided for herein.

Section 17. If any section, part of section, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance shall be held to be unconstitutional or invalid, the remaining provisions hereof shall nevertheless remain in full force and effect.

Section 18. All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance be and the same are hereby repealed.

Section 19. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage.

STOCK MARKET DISPLAYS SOME RECOVERY TODAY

Traders Apparently Fail to Derive Much Inspiration From War Dispatches.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market displayed modest recovery signs today, although traders apparently failed to drive much inspiration from war dispatches.

Inclined to edge forward were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Sperry, United Aircraft, Aviation Corp., General Electric, Du Pont, Texas Corp., and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Bonds and commodities were a trifle uneven.

Financial quarters saw a constructive indicator in the statement of federal reserve member banks in 101 cities disclosing commercial, industrial and agricultural loans rose $15,000,000 in the week ended Aug. 15.

Preston Delano, comptroller of the currency, announced that as of June 29, assets and deposits of the 5,170 national banks in the United States reached a new high total. The former stood at $36,885,080,000 and the latter at $33,074,407,000.

WILLKIE BLASTS BACK AT ICKES

'Amazed' President Would Let Such a Speech Be Made, Plans No Reply.

adding that the speech "is unworthy of answer." He said later Sen. H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire would have "something to say" this afternoon concerning it.

The nominee's original plan had been for Bridges to reply formally to Ickes in a radio address.

Ickes said in his address that Willkie joined Tammany Hall in 1923 and later "fought in the ranks of Tammany Hall, which sought the defeat of Fiorello La Guardia" as mayor of New York. Willkie declared, however, that as a matter of fact he had voted for La Guardia.

The Republican nominee probably will leave here Thursday. He may go to New York for a day or so and then proceed to Maine.

After taking newspapermen on a tour of his five Rush county farms yesterday morning, he spoke at a "Welcome Home" celebration arranged for himself and his wife, who was born here.

"Bombs are raining down on England today," Willkie said. "People who live and think as we do are being destroyed in their habit and way of life.

"When one in my situation realizes that he is being called upon to play a part in the discussions of matters that have to do with keeping that kind of holocaust from coming to this country, you must know how deeply I feel.

"I am ready to make whatever personal sacrifice may be required of me, or whatever long days and sleepless nights, to preserve at all hazards the kind of life we have here in Rush county."

In reply to his introduction as a "Rush county farmer," he said:

"I am a purely conversational farmer. I've never done a stroke of work on a Rush county farm in my life, and I hope that I don't have to. I merely do the talking."

Willkie's farms are operated by tenants, all of whom have participated in the federal AAA program. Willkie describes the cornfields and cattle and hog lots as "simple farming" rather than "show places."

The nominee said he wanted to retire to one of his places some day and "do some writing."

Bridges Calls Ickes 'Short Pants Hitler'

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Sen. Styles Bridges, (R., N. H.,) replying to Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, declared today that the New Deal "is nothing but an American form of Nazism" and that Ickes "is a Hitler in short pants."

Republican Presidential Nominee Wendell L. Willkie had designated Bridges to reply to a speech Ickes delivered last night.

Ickes, making an administration answer to Willkie's acceptance address, had characterized Willkie as "the simple, barefoot Wall Street lawyer." He said Willkie's charge that President Roosevelt may be inciting the country to war was "contemptible," and that the Republican party was a party of pro-Nazi appeasement.

Bridges said that Ickes, like Hitler, "is a professional rabble rouser who never succeeded at anything else."

FOIL ESCAPE OF TEN FROM JAIL

Trumbull Deputies Find Big Hole in Wall.

WARREN—(INS)—For the second time in a month, Trumbull county sheriff's deputies today studied the problem of halting jail breaks through the county jail's soft mortar walls after 10 prisoners were apprehended in an attempted escape.

Deputies discovered the prisoners had dug a hole three feet square in the brick interior with only a half inch of plaster left to break through.

Sheriff Roy Hardman told county commissioners that the bricks were so soft they could be broken by hand. The mortar was made over 50 years ago, he explained, with lime and sand, but with no cement binder.

RAIL VETERAN DIES

TIFFIN—(AP)—William C. France, 74, who retired in 1937 after serving 27 years here as an agent for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, died yesterday of a heart attack.

TIME TO CHECK HOME HEATING PROBLEMS NOW

Furnace Men Give Reasons For Summer Action on Winter Worries.

Phychologists might say that one way to forget this summer's heat is to think about next winter's cold. And heating men will tell you that a little properly applied thought now about next winter's cold can save a lot of trouble and worry when the wintry blasts blow.

They point out that heating systems should be checked over now while not in use, and repaired or replaced as the need demands. Carrying on this line of thought, they give three good reasons why you should think about heating your home now, namely:

1—Furnace and heating men have time now to adequately study your heating and air conditioning needs and recommend the best system.

2—You eliminate the danger of being "caught short" without heat on the first cool autumn days if you take care of it now.

3—It's cheaper now—you don't have to pay overtime installation charges as in the fall rush, and you don't run the risk of faulty "rush" jobs.

In other words, heating contractors maintain, everything is in your favor if you have your furnace, fireplace, or stove checked now—when the rush is on you may have to wait.

Heating contractors, generally, are enthusiastic about 1941 lines, pointing to lower prices, increased efficiency and better design as an indication that the property owner gets more for his money this year than ever before.

Biggest development in the furnace field is in the improvement of fire boxes and circulators, and in many instances, the allowance for later addition of home air conditioning equipment to current models.

Natural gas heating plants also show improvements along the same line of fuel conservation.

Heating stoves and room-size units for small homes and farms also have shown marked improvement over recent years, and dealers predict better heating results.

BLOWERS URGED

Air Conditioning for Summer and Winter Heating Aided.

Night air in summer is frequently 20 degrees cooler outside the house than indoors, according to a survey recently completed at the University of Illinois. Researchers there state that a house can be kept cooler by keeping doors and windows closed during the day and forcing the cool night air into the house early in the morning.

They recommend the use of furnace blowers as a means of forcing the cool air into the house and circulating it thoroughly.

Such a unit will also eliminate the dust and dirt that is constantly circulating through the home under ordinary conditions; it also will definitely increase the efficiency of your furnace during the winter months as much as 25 per cent. By gently circulating heated air through the house, a blower filter unit eliminates draft and makes it unnecessary to heat the air near the ceiling as high as 85 degrees in order to provide comfort at chair level.

HOT TIME SURE

Estate Heatrola to Combat Next Winter's Blasts.

Everybody can't help but remember the bitter cold which prevailed during the 1939-40 winter season, but there's no occasion to worry about the winter to come.

The one sure way to enjoy the warmth of summer when the thermometer starts to slide down hill, according to Quality Furniture Co. is through the comfort furnished by a genuine Estate Heatrola. Right now is the time to arrange for winter comfort—now while the annual Estate Heatrola pre-season campaign is in effect.

The campaign offers Mansfield citizens the opportunity to obtain a generous supply of free coal with each 1940 model Heatrola purchased from the Quality Furniture Co. during this special sale. Originated in 1922 by the Estate Stove company, manufacturers of the genuine Heatrola, this year's campaign runs from August 17th to September 7th and is again proving to be one of the most successful merchandising events ever devised.

Only a small deposit is required when you select your genuine Heatrola. The balance may be paid in convenient payments when the Heatrola is installed, and the free coal delivered.

TRUE ECONOMY

Schill Company's Crestline Furnace Reduces Bills.

The new Crestline furnace reduces your coal bills, increases your comfort, and protects your investment.

One of the many important features of the Schill Crestline furnace is the rugged construction of the fire pot. The heavily ribbed sections of the Crestline fire pot are built for long hard service. The deep cup joints provide a reliable seal and protect against rim cracks. Two piece construction lessens the strain that comes from rapid changes in temperature.

Because of the nearness of the Schill factory which is in Crestline, O., you get best possible and quickest service at all times.

O. D. Steil, 459 Marion avenue, is the representative for the Schill Manufacturing Co. in Mansfield.

The Ten Commandments are known also as the Decalogue.

All New Heating Conveniences In Sears' Offering

Sears' 1941 line of furnaces and stokers carries out the firm's policy of "all kinds of heat for all kinds of homes," according to A. R. Jones, store manager, who announced the new furnace line for Sears-Roebuck.

Featured in this year's model stokers are increased convenience—automatic temperature and draft control, limit switch and constant, even temperatures.

Backed by Sears' 20-year-guarantee, Indestructo furnaces offer heating efficiency and low prices as well as big savings in fuel bills, Jones declared.

BRITAIN MAKES U. S. OFFER OF DEFENSE BASES

Churchill Announces 99-Year Lease Plan, Asks For 50 Destroyers.

house of lords by Viscount Caldecote, dominions secretary.

Churchill warned that bigger operations are coming in the middle east.

As for Britain, he insisted, "invasion becomes much more difficult week by week."

His request for the American destroyers was voiced as an appeal "to our friends across the ocean" to send the warships which will "bridge the gap between the peace flotillas of 1939 and the war flotillas of 1941."

In a calmly confident war statement to the house of commons, his first in more than a month, he also placed total British dead, wounded and missing at 92,000 in this war and summoned the kingdom to prepare for the "campaigns of 1941 and 1942."

The prime minister, jeering at Hitler's proclaimed total blockade of England, declared bluntly that no food would be allowed to reach any country which has fallen to Hitler. He said he regretted that he had to refuse American requests that food be allowed to go to the people of France, Belgium and Holland.

He conceded that "the enemy are still far more numerous in the air than we," but declared that British plane production now exceeds Germany's "largely."

"We are sure of ourselves and our cause," said the prime minister, and he declared that, with control of the seas and the friendship of the United States, Britain can "draw resources from the whole world."

Two or three years mean nothing in the life of a nation, he told the British; and, be the road "long or short, rough or smooth, we mean to reach our journey's end."

Somberly, he reviewed this summer's "cataract of disaster," warned that "the puppet government" of France may be forced to become Britain's foe "at any moment" and declared that all the ports "from the north cape to the Spanish frontier" might be used for an invasion of Britain.

Yet, he said, immense amounts of munitions from the United States had been landed in England "without the loss of a gun or a round" of ammunition, and he predicted that England, with the help of American production, eventually would get superiority in the air.

Until that time, he declared, Britain will keep on fighting Germany in the air "indefinitely and as long as the enemy pleases."

2 TRANSPORTS HIT BY BRITISH BOMB ATTACKS

RAF Planes Range Over Norway Coast, Attack Bases in German-Held France.

subject to decree rule anywhere an emergency may arise.

A German warplane "which attacked a Suffolk coast town this morning was intercepted by our fighters and shot down into the sea," the air ministry reported.

This, following a night of air raids over a wide British area including England, Wales and Scotland, apparently meant the end of the second breathing spell from the attacks of massed German bombers.

Most of the night forays, however, were by lone raiders.

The air ministry admitted there had been some damage and casualties, including deaths, but declared most of the bombs fell harmlessly in rural areas.

A fireworks display—but no bombs—fell in one northeast England district. Observers said Nazi fliers used exploding flares which burst into five or six different lights until "the whole countryside was illuminated." An air ministry spokesman said these were similar to flares British fliers use to light up target areas in Germany.

Elsewhere, however, the German night raiders used high explosive, screamer, flare and incendiary bombs, especially in the north. Several houses were demolished and a school and theater damaged in one Midlands town where 15 to 20 bombs fell.

These assaults paled before the RAF bombardment of Boulogne, the third in 48 hours.

British bombers attacked the port in three waves, the bursting bombs, German searchlights and fires started aground providing a brilliant aerial display visible from the English southeast coast, 20-odd miles away. Observers thought at least one ammunition dump was destroyed.

A harvest moon made visibility unusually good for the attack.

Abruptly at 11:15 p.m. and again at 1 a. m. all German radio stations went off the air, indicating widespread British air raids on Germany.

(Berlin had its fourth air raid alarm of the war, sending residents to cover for an hour and 40 minutes.)

The British shot down a total of four German raiders in isolated forays which marked yesterday's lull in the air war against Britain.

The admiralty last night listed 1,074 officers and men as missing and 130 killed in the sinking of the aircraft carrier Glorious June 9—Britain's worst naval disaster of the war.

A British military source said today the Germans had tried to close the English channel to Britain in the first phase of their large-scale air war but failed.

Several London newspapers today praised the agreement of the United States and Canada to set up a permanent defense board.

British military sources acknowledged that at least one German gun in France had bombarded the English southeast coast and might shell London.

But, these sources said, such long-range guns are erratic and can have only "nuisance value."

RAF Raider Shot Down, Says Nazis

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(INS)—British penetration to the edge of Berlin's western air defenses was officially admitted by the Nazi high command today with disclosure that Royal Air Force planes raided various sections of Germany.

BERLIN—(AP)—A British Bristol-Blenheim bomber which attempted a raid on Berlin early this morning was shot down at Oldenburg, near Bremen, authorized sources reported today.

Detecting devices followed the raider across the country after it was driven away from the capital by anti-aircraft fire, it was explained.

The bomber, which dropped numerous flares over a suburban area only nine miles from Berlin, was one of two which attempted to approach the city during the night. The other was driven away from the far western outskirts by an anti-aircraft barrage.

Spokesmen said that no bombs were dropped near Berlin by the British planes.

The high command announced that German submarines were continuing successful raids on British merchant vessels and reported that one had sunk 41,000 tons of shipping.

BOARD CHANGES CADET SYSTEM

Substitute Teachers To Be Used in Plan Suggested By Superintendent.

Because of a shortage of elementary teachers in Ohio, this year, the Mansfield board of education last night voted a change in the Mansfield schools' cadet system, authorizing the appointment of substitute teachers as cadets in place of young women just out of college.

The change was made at the suggestion of Supt. W. L. Miller who said the inauguration of four years of professional training for elementary teachers had made it virtually impossible to obtain suitable cadets.

Under the cadet system, which has been used in Mansfield in recent years, college-trained young women without regular jobs are paid small salaries to serve as substitute instructors while they are observing experienced teachers and obtaining teaching experience themselves.

If the cadets prove satisfactory they are given regular teaching jobs in the schools when vacancies occur.

Supt Miller said about four regular substitute teachers will be given cadet ratings and will be paid $4 a day.

The new plan will be used, he explained, "until there are sufficient acceptable candidates for cadetships available or until another program is devised."

He said most of the able young women with adequate college training have jobs now and are not interested in the small pay of cadets.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, AUGUST 20, 1940.

The voice of the people has a hard time being heard above the roar of politics.

Politicians do not seem to be enjoying the new experience of letting Senator Hatch's conscience be their guide.

Ambassador Cudahy explains that the London reporters didn't understand what he said—and there should always be an interpreter around to translate the American language into English.

Defense Agreement With Canada

ESTABLISHING a mutual defense agreement with Canada and setting up a joint board on North American defense must indicate to even the most casual observer the nearness of the United States to war—in the event of Great Britain's defeat in the present Battle of England.

Closely following the compact which linked twenty-two nations of the Western Hemisphere against aggression by any foreign powers, this latest action by President Roosevelt to unify the defense planning of the United States and Canada evidences intention to regard the North American continent as a unit in laying out a preparedness program.

United States opposition to the principles and practices of Hitlerized Germany has heretofore been so clearly stated and the desire to aid Great Britain in every possible way "short of war" has been so obvious, that any idea of "appeasing" Hitler, or establishing "friendly relations" with him, in the event of his mastery of Europe, gives the impression of being ridiculous.

Disturbing as the thought may be, it has become apparent to most observers that the fate of the United States is now linked closely with that of Canada and its other neighbors on this hemisphere and that the war now raging over the British Isles is of as serious concern to people in this country as it is to British subjects.

There is belief in many quarters that if Great Britain could now have use of fifty or more of the World war destroyers for which the United States has no IMMEDIATE need, the tide of battle might be turned. Opinions of prominent attorneys have been to the effect that this can be legally done without constituting "an act of war," as has been contended by some objectors.

Transfer of these destroyers, and such other help as can be given Great Britain in fighting equipment, would represent small cost to the United States as compared with the tremendous defensive costs that will have to be met in the event of Britain's defeat, and domination of the Atlantic ocean by Nazi Germany.

Building Good-Will By Air

A GROUP of newspaper men, talking with officials of a large broadcasting company, asked what the radio networks were doing about winning the good will of South America. The answer was encouraging.

Last year, it was explained, the radio industry of the United States spent large sums of money on broadcasts for South America. The programs were not propaganda. They consisted in part of factual news on which Latin Americans soon learned they could depend. Along with the news went entertainment of good quality, especially music, but other excellent material as well.

The broadcasters know the programs were liked because there has been a generous response in approving letters to headquarters in this country.

Truth in news and high quality in entertainment are demanded here. It is reasonable to believe that the other Americans of this hemisphere will like us better and come closer to understanding us if we give them similarly excellent programs.

Smallest World's Fair

AMERICANS have long had a habit of wanting everything to be the biggest and best. The town of Ilwaco, Wash., population 900, is going to have a world's fair which will be the smallest of all world's fairs. Ilwaco will not deny, however, that she hopes her little bit of a snibbet of a world's fair may be known as the finest of all fairs before she gets through with it.

Square roots seem to be the order of the fair day at Ilwaco. The site is of 35 acres, which is less than the square root of the site of New York's exposition. A model of the exploring ship Columbia is three feet tall. Factories, laboratories, airplanes, locomotives, automobiles and everything will be shown in miniature sizes.

The great little fair will open May 11, 1942, which will be the 150th anniversary of the discovery of the Columbia river by Capt. Robert Gray in 1792. One good thing about it will be that it will be easy to look at. Visitors will not have to go home before they've seen all they want to see, just because their feet get tired.

Capable Man Will Be Needed

WASHINGTON correspondents say that Secretary of State Cordell Hull plans to retire from his job at the end of the year, regardless of how the national election comes out. Paul Mallon adds that Mr. Roosevelt is looking for a successor without any political background whatever.

There is general agreement that Mr. Hull has been an admirable secretary of state and has set a high standard for his position. Whichever party wins the election, it is obvious that the next incumbent should be the best man available, regardless of party affiliation.

Jaywalkers To Be Fined

THE jaywalker has come to be regarded as a public nuisance and some cities are taking measures to punish him, along with trouble-making motorists. Chicago seems to have taken the lead in making jaywalking both illegal and expensive.

The city council has produced an ordinance under which offending pedestrians may be fined as much as $200. Sidewalks and legitimate street crossings may become more popular if that ordinance is enforced a few times.

Nazi Pipe-Dream About Lindbergh

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

A POLITICAL third party is forming in the United States, according to German newspapers, and, say these same publications, Col. Charles A. Lindberg is to be its presidential nominee.

Lindbergh

The yarn made its initial appearance, Berlin dispatches relate, the day after the colonel broadcast his radio speech urging strict neutrality upon us as to the European conflict, accusing domestic and foreign "interests" of trying to lead us into the struggle and insisting that we can live on good terms with the Nazis if they win.

It seems that the story appeared under a New York date line, implying that it was cabled across from our side of the Atlantic, though of course it's possible that Dr. Joseph Goebbels cooked it up right in Germany.

Thouh the Germans doubtless would be glad to think that Lindy's talk made a tremendous hit with Americans, yet it's hard to believe that they really swallow the report of his prospective nomination for the White House. Quite regardless of his speech, one would think they'd realize that there are several other reasons why he isn't much of a presidential possibility.

In congress even the isolationist group rather wishes that Charley hadn't made that address. Its members are afraid he made their cause ridiculous, perhaps not altogether by the views he expressed, but on account of what they speak of as his "swell headedness" in setting himself up as an authority on statesmanship and diplomacy.

Some comment is to be heard to the effect that he actually is ambitious to break into high-up politics, maybe recalling that his father was in the house of representatives where, by the way, a good many of his associates referred to him as at least eccentric.

Wallace and His Boomerang.

The German presidential story is somewhat on a par with one recently circulated (but this latter one was too obviously a joke to be taken seriously even by a Nazi) in connection with Democratic Vice Presidential Nominee Henry A. Wallace's prowess as a boomerang thrower.

Boomerang throwing, as already has been widely advertised, is Henry's pet hobby.

Not long ago he took a day off to indulge in his favorite sport and several cameramen accompanied him to shoot pictures of the performance. Well, Henry hurled formidably, but unfortunately his boomerang, curving backward in its flight, hit one of the photographers, knocked him cold, and split open his scalp to such an extent that a number of stitches had to be taken in it.

Thereupon Washington pressmen proclaimed extensively the supposed news that our preparedness commission had drafted the vice presidential aspirant to head a boomerang corps for inclusion in our national defensive organization.

It wasn't printed, like the Lindy story, but it got to Henry and they say it bothered him considerably, as too frivolous to help his candidacy.

Health and Diet

Your Child Back On the Farm.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHAT is the benefit today for a child to visit a farm?

According to Dr. Allen G. Ireland, health education director of New Jersey, it is in seeing where the food he eats comes from. In this day of living out of cans this is not surprising. A summer trip to the farm may be made the basis for an all winter long course of study in food values and dietary hygiene. It's one thing to be told about the content of milk, quite another to see the actual milking process and bottling. One thing to hear about green vegetables, quite another to see the plants growing, being tended and gathered.

Food Likes and Habits.

As a matter of actual experience, teachers and mothers say that these trips make a tremendous difference in a child's food likes and habits. To see a plant growing arouses curiosity about it that is never stirred by seeing it cooked on a plate. So a trip to the farm broadens the taste in the best sense—the taste for different foods.

HOW fast does the blood circulate and how can this be determined?

The rapidity with which blood moves about would have astonished old William Harvey, who discovered that the blood circulated. He thought it made a complete circuit in about thirty minutes. The correct time is closer to that many seconds. A drop of blood at the elbow in the arm goes to the right side of the heart through the lungs, to the left side of the heart and to the nose or tongue in about ten seconds. The method to prove this is to put a small amount of ether in the vein of the arm and then when the experimental subject first smells or taste the ether the circuit has been made. Other methods which get away from the possibility of error from a subjective sensation like taste or smell are also used.

DO VEGETABLES that you grow in your own garden really taste better than those you buy at the store?

Yes. This question is a postscript to the first one. The reason, of course, is psychological, or rather psychic physiological—emotions stir the digestive juices to more secretion, the knowledge that these are your own vegetables makes your mouth water for them.

L. S.—"Is the regular use of margarine detrimental?"

Answer—Certainly not. Lulu G. Graves, in her book "Foods In Health and Disease," says: "Margarine consists of vegetable and animal fat. Has practically the same fuel value as butter and is as easily digested. Vitamin content (A and D) equally good in both. Shortening power and keeping qualities as good as butter, and margarine products stand high in cleanliness and purity."

War Prisoners In Forced Labor.

France has surrendered to Germany. The remains of its army have been demobilized and it is incapable of further resistance. Under the ordinary practice of war it would be assumed that the French military prisoners would be released to go home to support their families, or if that plan were not adopted that they would be retained in prison camps.

Instead they are being transported to Germany to be set to forced work in the fields, in mines, quarries and factories. Some of them will be expected to help make munitions to use against their former allies.

This is the same treatment that is accorded convicts on chain gangs.

Another vivid illustration of Nazi ruthlessness. Another example of the application of force against which the Britons are fighting. Another lesson of the sort of thing against which the United States is preparing its own defense.—Kansas City Times.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Blame Farley for Campaign Book; U. S. To Buy Half of Bolivia's Tin

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There was an inside reason why Attorney General Bob Jackson cracked down so forcefully on the Democratic campaign book. Not only did it violate the Hatch act, but the book was a Jim Farley job and the White House was just as indignant about the matter as the GOP.

Farley initiated and approved the book last spring, when he still had hopes of wangling a place on the Democratic ticket. At that time his close lieutenant, Oliver Quayle, Democratic national treasurer, got busy on the book. The White House knew nothing about the matter.

When it did break into the news, what added fuel to the New Dealers' ire was Farley's complete silence.

Although he was responsible for the book, he said nothing. As he was stepping out as national chairman his silence implied he was innocent. Farley's pussyfooting was bitterly resented in the Inner Circle, where feeling about him already was far from cordial.

However, they couldn't strike at him directly, so they did the next best thing. As the chief legal officer of the government, Jackson officially repudiated the book and in this blast specifically spanked Quayle, Farley's close pal.

Note—One of the first things Ed Flynn, new national chairman, did on taking over the office was to install a personal assistant in Quayle's office with explicit instructions to supervise everything done there. Flynn also took personal charge of the office of "Chip" Robert, national secretary and a Farley lieutenant. Both Quayle and Robert were re-elected by the national committee at Chicago at Farley's instigation, despite the fact that Roosevelt had told him he wanted both men replaced.

Desperate Tin Scarcity.

IT HASN'T leaked out yet, but after years of delay, and after facing what may be a desperate tin shortage, the state department is about to negotiate a contract with the Bolivian government for the purchase of about half of Bolivia's tin output.

This tin ore will be shipped to the United States for refining in newly-established tin smelters.

This is a big achievement for Bolivian Minister Guachalla who, for four years, has been hammering home at the state department the idea that Bolivia has something which the United States needs vitally.

But it by no means solves the tin problem for the United States, for Bolivia's production meets only about one-half of this country's normal requirements.

To tide over the present tin crisis, the National Defense Commission contracted to buy 75,000 tons of refined tin from the Dutch and British East Indies. This is enough to last for one year, but the question is, will it ever be delivered?

The answer is doubtful. Only 12,000 tons can arrive by January 1, and even this may be held up by German defeat of England or a Japanese blitzkrieg on the Dutch East Indies.

Most amazing feature of the deal is that the National Defense Commission is not attempting to buy new tin ore from the Far East, but only the refined, metallic tin. In other words, the tin is to be refined in the Far East, then shipped here. Reason for this is: (1) because the British put a 50 per cent tax on the export of crude ore to keep us from setting up a tin smelting business of our own; and (2) because the state department still is following a policy of dealing gently with British interests.

In other words, while we will set up a system of temporarily smelting Bolivian tin in the United States, the British still will attempt to hang on to their monopoly by smelting as much as possible themselves—and up to a point high U. S. officials seem reluctant to break away from the British system.

Agriculture Secretary.

IT LOOKS as if Franklin Roosevelt was going to play the cards close to his chest and go into the campaign without much enlargement of his official family. For his new secretary of agriculture, replacing Henry Wallace, is promoted from the ranks.

He is Claud R. Wickard of Indiana, now under secretary of agriculture, an able gentleman, but carrying no political weight and of no great help to Roosevelt or Wallace in a presidential year. Paul H. Appleby, Wallace's right hand assistant, and the man who vigorously urges Wickard's promotion, will step up to fill his shoes as under secretary.

This series of promotions is just the opposite of what were urged on Roosevelt by some of his political advisers who wanted him to reward Paul McNutt for his good-soldier sportsmanship at Chicago by putting him in Wallace's place, or to bring Missouri's Governor Lloyd Stark into the cabinet because of his popularity with the farmers.

Appleby, however, urged Wallace to demand the right to appoint his own successor, and the president has now gone along, which would seem to indicate that Mr. Roosevelt is not particularly worried about his re-election chances in November.

Note—Jim Le Cron, one of Wallace's ablest aids, will resign to be his campaign adviser.

Ambassador Cudahy.

NEW recipe for political success: get a diplomatic post, speak out of turn, take a spanking for it, then announce for political office.

The recipe was set by James H. R. Cromwell, whose remarks as minister to Canada brought him a state department reprimand. He is now running for the senate.

Same recipe apparently may be followed by John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium, who rode in high spirits through his White House reprimand the other day, and is being urged to run for governor of Wisconsin.

In fact, the president himself, before the "spanking" was over, urged Cudahy to run.

Cudahy went to the White House feeling he had been wronged by the state department's reprimand following his press interview in London. On the way, he said to a friend, "I've got to hurry. I'm going on the carpet at two." Then he added, "But I'm not going to be made a goat of, I can tell you."

When he walked into the president's office, the president opened with: "John, let's forget all about this business, shall we?" But Cudahy rejected the pipe of peace. "Oh no," he said, "I've been done a wrong here, and I want to set the record straight."

Then the president made the point that Cudahy was not recalled, but merely brought home for consultation, like Tony Biddle or Bill Bullitt.

Still Cudahy was not satisfied. "No," he insisted, "I'm under a cloud and I've got to be vindicated."

After the two men talked for an hour and a half, Cudahy came out authorized to say that he had not been reprimanded and that no reprimand was intended. This much he announced to the press, but what he did not disclose was that the president had urged him to run for governor of Wisconsin.

Note—State department officials, usually critical of "political" ambassadors, pay tribute to Cudahy's ability, and would like to keep him in the service. However, thanks to Hitler, there is a surfeit of embassyless ambassadors at present.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — The Polynesian motif has finally caught up with swing—at least it has on Broadway—and now the Onyx club is following the lead of the Beachcomber, the Hurricane, the Pago Pago club, and the Hawaiian room, a transition that many wouldn't have believed possible a few years ago. Once the cradle of swing, the Onyx first achieved the limelight around Christmas, 1935, when Farley and Riley drove everybody crazy with "The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round." It continued in later years with "Stuff" Smith, a mecca for those who drew satisfaction from listening to ear-splitting music in tight, compact little places. It goes South Seas now almost over night. The steel guitar is to replace the silver trumpet. The soft swish of ti-leaves will fan away the fever that for so many years gnawed at the heart of the jitterbugs.

ON A ROUND of the town the other night we ran into "Prince" Mike Romanov, who city-slicked New York, Miami, and Hollywood a few years ago with his "old world airs" before somebody exposed him. Mike never blushed at that time and he has never been embarrassed since. An East Side boy whose name is Harry, he posed as royalty and got away with it long enough to build up a tradition. I used to see him around before he headed west. Seeing him this time was the first time I had thought of him in years. While we were talking he drew out an amazing silver cigarette case, which was slightly smaller than a shoe box, and said, "My friend Charlie Chaplin gave me this." He pulled out a crisp $10 note and offered to buy a mineral water. "I have a suite at the Pierre," he said, "and when I go back to Hollywood I'm going to open a smart bar. My movie friends will be my board of directors."

Mike once said: "Certainly I'm a phoney. But people like me—and help me—because I'm the best in the business." Mike was right. People do. And he is.

WE WERE talking the other night about the people who play glamorous, adventurous roles on the stage and screen. Often they themselves have been lifted from dull, prosaic lives. But that isn't the case with Errol Flynn, the movie hero. Actually, he is the son of a Dublin university professor and, before he went into the movies, he traded in copra and prospected for gold in New Guinea. Flynn hob-nobbed with pearl divers and beachcombers for months in the south seas. Playing his swashbuckling roles on the screen is a form of make-believe that, to him, is understandably real.

Another Irish hero with a background of adventurous reality is black-headed George Brent, who might be an army officer today if he hadn't come to America. Brent, among other things, was a dispatch-bearer for famed Michael Collins during the Irish Rebellion. As a matter of fact, Edward G. Robinson once wanted to manage an art gallery; Frank McHugh hankered after Blackstone and a study of the law; Bette Davis swears she has always wanted to be a nurse. So it goes. Flynn the prospector and Brent the dispatch carrier—both wound up on the funny studio lots of Hollywood.

A Farmer's Diary

Neighbor Boy

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE neighbor boy was a shy, retiring sort, but we all liked him. One time only did I see him laugh until his sides were sore and that was when the old gray mare laid down in the stream when I rode her there to water, and I was dunked to the neck and sopping wet.

He was quiet, bashful, freckled, afraid of girls. We attended country school together, but he never made good in the classroom. He blushed about the ears when his name was called, and although the rest of us pupils understood that he knew more than he could tell, his grades were not among the highest third.

At 17, he quit and I was surprised when the next summer he confided that he was planning to attend an institution of higher learning. We wondered whether he'd last long at college and whether he wouldn't be homesick. Surprisingly, he stuck it out until the holidays without a trip home. He came to visit us then. He was still bashful and calculating, but I noticed he used better English than we did.

I saw him only in summers after that, until he graduated. He had taken architecture. Every year he came back to the home farm to help his dad and settled back into the usual neighborly rut—a bit older, a bit more sure of himself, but just the neighbor boy.

Then he got his first job away and we heard he had done well. When again I met him, he invited me to go along and see what he was doing. I accepted. He had a ten-story building started, he said, in the heart of a city. We went to his small apartment. His landlady told him of several callers while he was away. He changed his clothes and I followed him along the street. We heard the sound of hammers and saws and he indicated a long white building which already towered above neighboring walls.

As we ascended the temporary stairs middle-aged carpenters and older mechanics came up to ask him questions. He seemed so young, yet as he stood upon the upper platform, he was assured, dynamic. The farm boy, shy and diffident, was gone. I did not even recognize my companion of the street. Here was the architect whose orders were respected. I stood beside a man I did not know.

Three Men Killed In duPont Explosive Plant Blast

STATE POLICE THROW GUARD AROUND PLANT

Officials Silent, Refuse To Give Details of New Jersey Explosion.

(By United Press)

GIBBSTOWN, N. J. — Three men were reported killed today in an explosion in a building at the E. I. du Pont de Nemours and company eastern laboratory here.

Two other workmen were said by company officials to have escaped from the building shortly before the blast occurred.

Cause of the explosion was not immediately determined. The explosion was another in a series of blasts at du Pont plants in this vicinity within the past year.

State police were summoned to the scene immediately after the explosion and officials refused to give out any details pending an investigation.

The firm, one of the largest explosives manufacturing concerns in the country, placed heavy guards around the eastern laboratory shortly before the first blast last winter. The plant is largely an experimental station for testing new explosives.

Another in the series of duPont blasts occurred at the company's Deepwater plant several months ago, in which two men were burned severely.

In a preliminary statement company officials said:

"An explosion occurred in the cartridging house at the Repauno dynamite plant of the duPont company at Gibbstown at 11:55 a. m.

"As far as is known now, three men were involved in the explosion.

"The building where the explosion took place is a one-story frame structure."

Although officials held that only three men were involved in the blast, company police at the scene said that possibly four men had been killed.

The contests, to consist of a nail keg derby, tennis matches and other play events, will be held at Harmon playground, center of the city-wide play program.

CALL FOR BASES ON WEST COAST IN DEFENSE PLAN

Congressional Sources Urge Start of Work on New Alaskan Highway.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Congressional sources urged today that the projected United States-Canadian defense board make its first order of business immediate establishment of joint air bases in Canada and construction of a $25,000,000 west coast highway to Alaska.

Prompt undertaking of these tasks was proposed by Rep. J. Buell Snyder, D., Pa., chairman of the house appropriations sub-committee in charge of army bills, and Anthony J. Dimond, Alaskan delegate to congress.

They voiced their demands as President Roosevelt considered names of possible appointees to the joint board. He was expected to announce his selections within the next two or three days, so that the mutual defense program could get under way without delay.

Some observers predicted that his appointees would include Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations; Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics; Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; and Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps.

Authorities refused to discuss contemplated plans or reveal what steps the board might take pending actual designation of its members.

In Ottawa, the Canadian government moved to speed inauguration of the joint defense effort by naming naval and military attaches to be sent to Washington. The possibility was discussed that over-age U. S. destroyers, not now in service, might be sent to Canada as part of this country's "material aid" to the Dominion but officials said such a step was beyond the scope of the present agreement.

ful, dynamic and attractive figure," while thousands of others "execrate Insull as the man who ruined them."

In his attack on the Republican party, Ickes said:

"Mr. Willkie's current party contains the men who think that they can appease Hitler by making a deal—the big business men who were caught conferring in secret with a notorious Nazi agent, Dr. Westrick.

"Mr. Willkie's current party includes the men who think that big business should be allowed to capitalize a grave national crisis for its own private profit; that, somehow or other, the country will muddle through if only the party of big business and appeasement is given an exclusive right to handle the defense program.

"What has Mr. Willkie's current party to offer America but more Munichs, more appeasement abroad, and more defeatism and reaction at home?"

CALLS NEW DEAL THE ISSUE

NEW YORK — (ANS) — The New Deal, and not the third term, is the issue today in the current political campaign, according to Edward J. Flynn, the new national Democratic chairman.

Wendell L. Willkie, in his speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination, demonstrated that "he believes in almost everything the Roosevelt administration has accomplished," Flynn said in his first radio address as the new party head last night. He was introduced by James A. Farley, the retiring national chairman.

While addressing his appeal largely to the independent voter, Flynn asserted he entertained no doubts that President Roosevelt will be elected for a third term. The country is "intensely Democratic" and there are no indications as yet of any large shifts in the voting population, he added.

"There are many people who say they do not like the third term," Flynn said. "They mean they do not like the president. That is their privilege. They pretend to be against the third term and what they really are against is any kind of supervision and proper regulation on the part of the government in matters of public interest, such as utilities, violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws, conspiracy to fix prices, or monopolies in trade and industry."

FOUR FINED

GALION — In the local campaign against reckless driving which started last Tuesday, four persons have been arrested and paid fines of $5, it was announced by Chief of Police George Moody. Those paying fines were Philip Truka, Bucyrus; Thomas Flannery, Richard Crim, and Fred Northrup of this city.

MEMBER OF FIRST LUCAS HIGH SCHOOL CLASS WILL BE BURIED

LUCAS — Funeral services for Arthur W. Leiter, aged 68, who died at his home near Lucas Monday, will be held from the Finefrock funeral home in Mansfield Wednesday at 2:30 p. m.

Leiter was a member and valedictorian of the first class to graduate from Lucas high school in 1890, and was one of the four living members of that class to be honored at a golden anniversary banquet of Lucas alumni last June.

Following his graduation Leiter entered the educational field and was engaged as a teacher in the public schools of Monroe and Washington townships for several years.

Surviving are the widow, a brother, Coul Leiter, of Van Wert, and a sister, Mrs. William Baer, of Lucas.

The funeral services will be in charge of Rev. O. L. Hull, of Wilmington, a brother-in-law of the deceased, assisted by Rev. J. W. Overmyer, of Lucas.

Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

FIFTH COLUMN GIVEN CREDIT FOR NAZI RULE

Donovan and Mowrer Declare 'Trojan Horse' Tactics Win for Hitler.

Editor's Note: The following is the second article made public by Secretary Knox of the navy department at Washington, as part of the national defense program. Col. Donovan recently returned from a mission abroad on behalf of Secretary Knox. He wrote these articles in collaboration with Edgar Mowrer, foreign correspondent.

By COL. WILLIAM J. DONOVAN and EDGAR MOWRER

When allowance has been made for Hitler's superior armies, his resourcefulness, his daring, and the vital assistance by Germans living within the victim countries, his success can only be explained by another factor. This is nothing less than the presence among his enemies of what, since the Spanish civil war, has been known as the "fifth column."

Since no country has ever been unanimous, a "fifth column" has existed potentially in every land in every war. But despotic or totalitarian countries ruthlessly suppress it at home while explointing it elsewhere. It is in a democracy that the "fifth column" can function most freely and effectively. It remained for Adolf Hitler's genius to raise the creation, strengthening, organization and activity of the "fifth column" in the countries that opposed him to a decisive weapon.

He said more or less openly that he would do so.

"We need armies. But we shall not use them as in 1914. The place of artillery will in the future be taken by revolutionary propaganda, to break down the enemy psychologically before the armies begin to function at all. The enemy people must be demoralized and ready to capitulate before military action can even be thought of . . . mental confusion, indecisiveness, panic, there are our weapons. The history of revolutions . . . is always the same: the ruling classes capitulate. Why? Defeatism: They no longer have the will to conquer."

The propaganda machine for creating and sustaining a "fifth column,"—again according to Hitler's confessed theory—is of a double nature. On one side it aims at influencing the masses. For this purpose Hitler in the present war utilizes his radio traitors. Lord Haw Haw for the English, Ferdonnet for the French, and to some extent, particularly in the last two years, Communist agitators whom he tricked or corrupted into serving him. But for the classes he had a much more subtle bait. As he himself put it:

"The results at which I aim are only to be obtained by the systematic corruption of the possessing and governing classes. Business advantages, erotic satisfactions and ambition, are the three main stops in our propaganda organ."

How did this work in the various countries?

In the bloodless conquest of Austria, "fifth column" Austrian leaders like Seyess-Inquart, dupes like Guido Schmidt, played a decisive part. While the discontent of the masses was whipped up to enthusiasm in favor of Nazi Germany, agents like Franz Von Papen skillfully convinced leading Austrians that only through Hitler could their secret aspirations be fulfilled.

The Slovaks, who had suffered their bondage under Hungary, could be duped. But Czechs and Poles could not. Both peoples had lived far too long cheek to jowl with Prussians to have the slightest doubt as to Hitler's real intentions. There was no strong "fifth column" among the Czechs and Poles; a few Czech agrarians, the former Polish foreign minister Josef Beck. The Czechs were finally conquered by French betrayal and British selfishness, the Poles by the armed might of a nation three or four times as strong.

To see the "fifth column" in full swing one had to wait for the attack on democratic countries.

In Norway there is little doubt but that "fifth column" activities contributed to the success of the German blitz attack and were responsible for the quick collapse of all organized resistance. Major and former national defense minister Quisling had been, if not actually in the pay of German Nazis, at least in close contact with them for years. His success in stabbing Norway in the back can be traced (A) to the fear of Socialism carefully fostered among leading Norwegians by Nazi propaganda and (B) to the fact that numerous appointments to high army commands had been made by Quisling's intimate friend. There is some reason to believe that the electrically controlled mines guarding the inner harbor of Oslo were put out of action by another highly placed Norwegian traitor. In view of the effeciency of relatively weak coastal defense, it is safe to say that without "fifth column" activity in Norway, the Norwegian resistance would have lasted several days and the invasion conceivably failed altogether.

In Holland the "fifth column" was more numerous than effective. This was doubtless due to its open character. The five odd percent of all Dutchmen organized in Mussert's Dutch Socialist party for years provided the Nazis with military and economic information. But the Dutch government had little enough to conceal. The Dutch National Socialists did what they could do to welcome, assist and succor the invading German parachutists and air-borne infantry, and somewhat half-heartedly took part in the German attacks upon the Dutch police and army. But of themselves they were relatively ineffective.

Mercy Ship From Britain Overdue In Gotham Harbor

NEW YORK—(AP)—An unidentified British liner which was expected to arrive yesterday morning with 138 child refugees from the European war had not been sighted up until noon today.

Members of the United States committee for the care of European children, which arranged the voyage, had waited at the battery all day yesterday and were back at their vigil today.

Among the young refugees are 84 children of employes of the Hoover Vacuum Cleaner company's plant in England. They are to be placed in the homes of Hoover employes at North Canton, O.

Despite war-time censorship, it was learned that the ship had reached Halifax and presumably was en route to New York.

FIVE COMMUNITY FUND AGENCIES REPORT BALANCE

Hospital Ends Year $7,000 In Black, Statement Issued Today Shows.

Five of the nine agencies participating in the Mansfield Community Fund ended the fiscal year showing balances ranging from $41 to more than $7,000, while three agencies showed deficits for the year's operations, and one "broke even" according to the annual statement just issued by the Fund.

Made public today, the report shows that Mansfield General hospital emerged with a balance of $7,105.89 after all bills, maintenance and repairs of buildings and bad accounts had been charged off. This figure represents $928 more than the institution received from the Community Fund. The hospital's total income for the year was $227,808 and its total expenditures were $220,702. It received $6,177 from the Community Fund.

Both the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. showed small balances over the year, the Y. M. with $472 and the Y. W. with $41 left.

The Y. M. received a total of $11,454 from the Community Fund and all other sources, and spent $10,981, including its soft ball league fees. Operating the Y. W. C. A. cost $8,799 the past year, while the income was $8,841, including the $6,403 it received from the Fund.

The Visiting Nurses also showed a balance, with $73 left after the year's expenditures of $8,811 had been paid. The nurses cared for 1,654 bedside cases during the year, which entailed 5,992 visits by nurses.

The Girl Scouts, newest agency admitted to the Fund family and receiving one of the smallest allocations from it, spent $1,705 of its total income of $1,865, leaving a balance of $160.

The books of the Salvation Army show a deficit of $110 for the year. The religious welfare institution received $7,817 and spent $7,927.

The Boy Scouts and the Friendly House were unable to operate within their budgets, the former being $185 in the red at the end of the year after its income of $8,245 failed to meet its needs. The Friendly House fared worse, ending the year with a deficit of $385. The settlement house had an income of $9,170 last year, but its expenses were $9,555.

The Milk Fund, which supplies milk twice daily for undernourished school children, received $1,517 from the Community Fund. The entire amount was spent, according to the statement.

OHIO TROOPS DRIVEN BACK AS NEIGHBORS CLASH IN MOCK WAR

(By Associated Press)

CAMP McCOY, Wis.—It was neighbor against neighbor yesterday as the "Battle of Wisconsin" raged, with troops from Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia pitted against doughboys from Ohio, and Illinois forces attacking a Wisconsin home guard.

Four national guard units were locked in "combat" as second army maneuvers got under way. Cavalry clashes featured the engagement between the 32nd division of Wisconsin and Michigan and the 33rd Illinois division.

On the other side of the "battlefield," Maj. Gen. Gilson D. Light's 38th Ohio division took bitter "punishment" from the fast-moving troops of the 28th Kentucky, Indiana and West Virginia division.

As night fell, the 107th cavalry and 112th observation squadron held back the "enemy" while General Light shifted troops to trouble spots.

The divisional problems were the largest in scope tackled by the second army so far. Maneuvers will close next week with 60,000 engaged in a conflict.

Outcome of the "battle" will be decided later by the 150 umpires.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

DEMOCRACY SUBJECT OF VICTORIAN STUDY

Organization Announces Program For Coming Season; Joint Sessions, Guest Party, Panel Discussion Features.

WITH a gorgeous harvest moon above, and a tinge of autumn in the air even at this early date thoughts of most Mansfield women are turning to fall club programs, and many organizations have already mailed out copies of their programs or have graciously permitted us a peak at the galley proofs so that we may write of things to come.

Important to clubdom always are joint meetings. The first one announced for the coming season is a session of the Victorian, Nomad, Traveler's and Round Table club to be held Sept. 25. Complete plans will be disclosed later.

Fitting, certainly, is the program for the year's study for Victorian members. They have chosen "The American Way" for their subject. The season will begin on Oct. 14 with regular sessions following throughout the fall, winter and spring.

On Dec. 16 the group will meet jointly with Round Table members, and Mrs. H. L. Creveling and Mrs. H. T. Siegenthaler will be the hostesses, while Miss Florence MacDonald will be in charge of the program. On Jan. 13 Mrs. Paul Cropper will review a modern play while Mrs. Lester Redding entertains.

March 10 has been designated as guest day with Mrs. C. H. Henkel and the officers, Mrs. John W. Graham, president; Mrs. John H. Finefrock, vice president, and Mrs. Carl O. Russell, secretary-treasurer, in charge of the program, and Mrs. William Layton and Mrs. Victor Smith as hostesses.

On April 7 the group will have a luncheon meeting followed by a panel discussion of women in letters. Those presenting the program will be Mrs. D. C. Lavender, Mrs. Dwight Weir, Mrs. A. L. Price, and Mrs. Frances R. Barrett. Hostesses will be Mrs. Alice P. Jennings and Mrs. C. H. Huston.

The remaining programs of the season will include discussions of various phases of democracy and of the place of women in business, professions and social service.

Miss Alberta Laws Wedded To J. U. MacCartney Sunday

THE Ontario Community church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Alberta Margaret Laws, daughter of Mrs. Marie I. Laws, R. D. 3, and Joseph Underwood MacCartney, son of Mrs. Elizabeth MacCartney, R. D. 6, Rev. E. A. Girls Swim For Health And Beauty

Even those girls who make wry faces when exercise is mentioned are willing to scuttle along on their pretty legs to the beaches and join up with the mermaids. Interest in swimming is a good sign from the standpoint of the beauty observer. To plough through the waves is to do a lot of corrective work for the figure that is not strictly up to par. Muscles are roused into a condition of energy which is a prerequisite of an erect, poised, well-carried body. Blood streams catch the spirit of the occasion, see what they can do by way of hustling along at top speed. All of which tends to create a good complexion, put the star shine in the soul windows and ginger in the footsteps.

The breast stroke is the best possible means of normalizing the bust: it trims down one that is over-developed: strengthens the fibers of breasts that have become deflated. The overhand or crawl is the perfect means of firming a neck that seems bent upon self destruction. This movement acts upon the muscles from the fingertips to the hips, stretching the torso full length: if there are any rolls of flesh below the breast or where your belt should be, they will be acted upon favorably and will eventually evaporate.

There are many girls and women who refuse to enjoy pools and beaches because they think they are at a disadvantage pictorially. Some little beauty worry holds them back. Fuzzers on the legs, for instance. Nasty little black hairs that make them look furry. These growths can be removed by the used of depilatories. If girls hesitate to give themselves these treatments, they can have the work done at any beauty shop. Or the skin spinach can be bleached by application of peroxide. To two tablespoonfuls of peroxide one single drop of household ammonia must be added. The lotion is applied once a day with cotton until the growth has whitened.

Then there are those who enjoy swimming but feel that when they emerge from the waves they looked all washed up and all washed out. They haven't found out that there are varieties of lipsticks designed for sun bathers and swimmers, lip colorings that are practically waterproof. A liquid rouge will still like a friend and a brother: only soap and water will remove it.

A suntan oil is essential, even this late in the season. No sense getting a face like that of an old salt, all brown and leathery. Use the oil freely. These toiletries can be tucked into a purse-like envelope designed especially for beach use.

TAX TAKE HIGH

BUCYRUS—That the real estate tax collection in Crawford county will be well over the $300,000 mark was forecast Monday by County Treasurer Matt Quay, who reported a total collection so far of around $300,000. Tax books were closed last Thursday, but the treasurer said he would continue to take collections until the end of this week.

Furs Feature Smoother Shoulders

Left, beaver daytime coat; center, red fox three-quarters model; right, wrist-length white fox-dyed lynx.

By SUSAN BARDEN
International Illustrated News Writer

HERE'S MORE fur fashion news if you are planning to do any buying in the next couple of weeks.

Edward Stevenson, Hollywood designer, gave these tips to movie stars, so we are passing them along to you.

The main difference in the new coats seems to be in the cut of the shoulders. They are smoother and though still wide they have none of last year's fullness. The sleeves are a little fuller and many are bell-shaped. In sports coats and backs are yoked and flared from shoulder to hem, very full and graceful.

As for the furs themselves—mink, ermine, lynx, beaver, leopard, blue fox and that perennial favorite silver fox are all high fashion for the coming season. But the real news in the fox family is the platina silver fox. This latest addition comes from Norway, and is a soft, lustrous tone of silver which is lighter than the Canadian or Russian types.

Perfect for Any Occasion.

Of course an ideal wardrobe of fur coats would contain four lengths. Within a few inches of the floor for formal evenings, street length for daytime, wrist length for less formal evening and afternoons, and three-quarters for sports.

But to be practical, with the exception of the full-length evening coat, any one of the other lengths would be perfect for almost any occasion.

Virginia Vale is wearing a wrist-length coat. It is white fox dyed lynx, and is ideal for both evening and dressy afternoon parties.

Lucille Ball has chosen a red fox three-quarters length coat that can double for sportswear or for evenings. Its full skins run from shoulder to hem and make a strikingly cut, luxurious looking wrap.

Last but not least is the street length worn by Fay Wray. Note the way the back fullness is introduced on the yoke, and also the small standup collar. Both these features are very new and smart. The coat is made of beaver and is grand for sports and daytime wear. And if you are the proud possessor of something like this, you'll certainly be the girl most likely to succeed at football games this fall.

Mansfield Pastor Married Monday To Crestline Girl

Presiding Elder Rev. Q. A. Deck of Canton, of the Evangelical Congregational church, officiated at 8 p. m. last night for the marriage ceremony which united Miss Lethia Marie Cole, 95 Waring avenue, and Rev. Mahlon D. Wenger, West Fifth street. The service was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron S. Cole, in Crestline.

For her marriage Miss Cole wore a street length dress of aqua colored fabric with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses and blue delphinium.

An improvised altar of ferns and garden flowers provided the setting for the simple ceremony.

Rev. Wenger, son of Milton Wenger, Lancaster, Pa., is pastor of the Evangelical Congregational church in Mansfield. Following the serving of a dinner to close friends and relatives the couple left for a church conference at Hoophole, Ill.
